Inflation—Radicalism
Hauptmann's Jury
More Heads to Fall
More Public Ownership

A UNIVERSAL SERVICE correspondent says the President "will talk to Congress, in person, on January 3 or 4, to discourage radical and inflationary elements in Congress from kicking over the traces."

Everybody will be delighted to have the President discourage inflation. The wise hope he will begin by discouraging the needless issuing of "inflation bonds," that double the debt with interest payments and gives no better security than ordinary American money would give.

Those who say the President could not resist "violent inflation" if he issued plain money and saved 100 per cent in interest pay the President a poor compliment and do not know him.

As regards real radicalism, President Roosevelt can teach many Congressmen things that they never knew about radicalism. But he wants American radicalism dealing RADICALLY with American problems in the American way, not trying to apply to the United States the theories of the interesting Karl Marx or the bitter Lenin.

Our problem is to make DISTRIBUTION equal PRODUCTION, and that is no Marx or Lenin problem.

On a panel of forty-eight, from which a jury of twelve will be selected to try Bruno Hauptmann, accused of killing the Lindbergh baby, are twenty women, twenty-eight men.

If you were Hauptmann, innocent or guilty, would you prefer men or women on your jury?

Women, as you learn from Euripides' "Bacchae," are not gentle when they start on a hunt, and would be even more anxious than men to punish the horrible crime committed against the Lindbergh child.

On the other hand, women have a strong sense of justice, and would be more influenced than men by the charge, supported by Hauptmann's doctor, that Hauptmann had been brutally beaten with a hammer by police, anxious to force a confession.

Women jurors, if they believed the story, might conclude that the police lacked convincing evidence of their own.

Living under a dictator has its dangers. Reports from Germany say more than 100 have been killed and more than 1000 arrested in another "purge," intended to wipe out leaders opposed to Hitler and intimidate their followers.

Among those shot or marked for the shooting are said to be many accused of hideous depravity.

Russia's government believes the assassination of Kiroff to be part of a plan to murder his superior, Stalin, ruler of all the Russians.

Trotsky, formerly head of the Russian army, once greater in Russia than Stalin himself, is accused of planning the attack on Stalin.

It is probable that "heads will fall" or hearts will be shot through plentifully in connection with that matter. The "Volksstimme" of Saarbruecken says more than one hundred have been killed in the new German "purifying drive," but information from Russia and Germany is vague at this writing.

New York City will build its own power plant, and invite Uncle Sam to buy power at reduced rates, for the New York postoffices and other government buildings.

That combination of Uncle Sam and New York City in public ownership will startle and disturb private ownership.

In addition to a city-owned plant that Mayor LaGuardia will build in the Bronx, eventually inviting all citizens to buy cheap power, the national government and New York City plan to build another power plant near the downtown postoffice.

Consolidated Gas, New York's big power company, knows that a storm is coming, and proves it known by cutting its dividend in half, thus conserving cash ammunition, and making sure that 100,000 stockholders will do some earnest talking.

No government, however, municipal or national, would destroy a billion dollar investment, and the value of securities in savings banks, life insurance companies and private ownership, without a proposition to buy, or some other compensation.

Modern improvements may eventually include hot water free, that is, after you have installed your "sunlight concentrator." Dr. Abbott, of the Smithsonian Institution, has built a "sun-harnesser" that concentrates the sun's rays with sufficient power to produce a temperature of 400 degrees in twenty minutes, twice the boiling point of water. An ingenious clockwork keeps the concentrator turning and always facing the sun.

TUBE TRAFFIC IS DELAYED

50 FLEE FIRE IN EAST BOSTON BUILDING

Trolley service to and from the East Boston tunnel was tied up for more than half an hour today and 50 persons were driven to the street by an $8000 two-alarm fire in the four-story, brick building at 48 Maverick square, East Boston.

Six firemen were partially overcome by smoke that drove eight lodgers out of the upper stories, while more than two score neighbors fled to the street.

Heroine of the fire was Mrs. Helen Paimo, 24. She carried out her children, Frank, 5, and Albert, 3, then returned to help out Mrs. Harry Aiguier, 21, from the second floor and went back a second time for Mrs. Aiguier's four months old child. She also saved a dog.

Efforts of Fred O. Green, drug clerk, and Miss Helen Johnson, 26, to save a pet cat from the basement were unsuccessful. The cat was suffocated.

A cigarette stub left in a washroom, caused the blaze, fire officials said.

The firemen were also handicapped by ice that formed rapidly on their hose.

Most of the damage was confined to the cellar and the first floor drug store of Charles H. Packard, the owner of the building.

ANNE LINDBERGH

ANNE LINDBERGH TO TESTIFY

By International News Service

Trenton, N. J., Dec. 28—Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, mother of the kidnaped and slain Lindbergh baby, will be called as a witness for the prosecution in the trial of Bruno R. Hauptmann, it was disclosed today by the Attorney-General's office.

Mrs. Lindberg, according to Attorney-Geral David Wilentz, is considered by the State as one of its most important witnesses.

Mrs. Lindbergh, together with Betty Gow, nursemaid in the Lindbergh home, were the last persons to see the child alivve before he was abducted.

Her appearance, it was understood, was willingly offered.

"No mothey who went through the anguish Mrs. Lindbergh did," said one prosecution official, "could be kept away from this trial."

NO JOBS Sure, Says LEONARD

HINTS DRASTIC SHAKEUP

NEW POLICE HEAD SEES NEED OF CHANGES

No member of the Boston police department is secure in his present assignment.

A thorough shakeup from top to bottom is possible.

Joseph J. Leonard, made police commissioner in an eleventh-hour deal between Governor Ely and the Executive Council, indicated this today in his first interview with headquarters newshawks.

His predecessor, Eugene C. Hultman, now moved to Beacon Hill as Metropolitan Commission chairman, had asserted that certain officials were secure for the time being.

Schwartz to Go

"No, I have no actual agreements with Mr. Hultman; nothing is secure," said Commissioner Leonard in reply to persistent queries.

He said that Leo Schwartz, legal adviser to the police commissioner, a job that Hultman created and made a powerful one—will be replaced.

That was predicted by the Boston Evening American 24 hours ago. Augustine J. Gill, commissioner's secretary, will also be replaced, said Leonard.

To many of the questions hurled at him by reporters, the new police head replied:

"Well, I must wait and see. I

Richberg's Warning

SAYS JOBLESS EVEN GREATER THREAT THAN FOREIGN FOE

By International News Service

Cleveland, Dec. 28—Business was warned by Donald R. Richberg today that it might be cheaper to find work for the unemployed "than to support the armies necessary to hold them back if once those millions of pleading fingers were turned into threatening claws."

"We may have some reasonable fears of a foreign foe," he stated at the opening of the civic exposition here, "but the greatest danger that threatens America are those of internal dissension."

Answering one of the recommendations of the White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., conference of business leaders for drastic curtailment of federal expenditures and a balanced budget, the director of the national emergency council said:

"The man who talks about referring the problem of several million capable, earnest idle workers back to overburdened states and cities for local solutions, simply does not know what the problem is.

"Regardless of theory the choice is before us here and now. We must bring about the re-employment of four or five million workers in the near future, either through a great expansion of private enterprise, or through further government activities."

He praised the administration's program for a political economic system and asked private interests to build a new industrial structure on these foundations.

He said the recovery program is working. Industrial employment has jumped between four and five million; agriculture has been improved; demands for financing have been met; banks and similar institutions are generally sound, credit is ample "and conditions are ripe for a general advance of private enterprise."

He said the federal relief load this winter is now and may be expected to remain, about 2,000,000 cases under last year.

The problem of caring for the idle eventually may be referred to the states but now it is the federal government's job, Richberg said, because it affects the entire country.

"We must recognize the obligation of government in such an emergency. Government must assume, first the burden of providing relief, and second, the task of mobilizing private business to re-employ the idle. And ultimately, if unemployment is not steadily relieved, government must undertake to provide somewhere that re-employment which alone can insure individual freedom and security."

INDICTED TAX FRAUD LAID TO FOUR

By Associated Press

Washington, Dec. 28—Four persons, two of them Treasury employes, were indicted today by a District of Columbia grand jury for conspiracy to defraud the government in connection with income tax cases.

The indictment resulted from testimony given by Thomas N. McCarter, president of the New Jersey Public Service Corporation. He was the government's chief witness.

SNIPPER? GIRL'S HAIR CUT IN SLEEP

The waist-line, platinum blonde hair of 12-year-old Dorothy Almberg, of 106 Monroe avenue, East Woburn, was slashed to a bob while the girl was asleep, her parents reported to the police today.

The girl said she was startled out of her slumbers two and a half hours after she had retired by a dream that her hair was cut. She found that the dream was true.

Members of the girl's family told police no sounds of a prowler were heard and a screen in Dorothy's room, which was nailed had not been touched.

LABOR ASKS PROBE OF SCHOOL REDS

By Universal Service

New York, Dec. 28—Matthew Woll, vice-president of American Federation of Labor, today called upon Congressman John McCormack, chairman of the congressional committee on un-American activities, to have that body broaden its inquiry to include an investigation of Communistic propaganda in American colleges.

In a letter to Congressman McCormack, the spokesman for labor declared that William Randolph Hearst has raised an issue in articles and editorials in his newspapers dealing with this subject that should be threshed out at the earliest possible moment.

As acting head of the National Civic Federation, Woll said he would appreciate the opportunity of placing before the congressional committee facts in possession of the organization bearing on this field of inquiry.

The text of the letter of Woll to Congressman McCormack follows:

"My Dear Mr. McCormack:

"Monday morning's newspapers carried the announcement that 20

Too Much Mail

Washington, Dec. 28 (INS)—Such an avalanche of Christmas mail came to the White House that Mrs. Roosevelt said today there is no physical way it can be acknowledged. She said she sensed in the messages a greater feeling of hope and happiness this year.

BLAST INJURES 3 IN STOUGHTON

Three workmen were injured and scores escaped serious injury today when a curing machine in the acid room of the Meade Rubber Company in Stoughton exploded and nearly demolished one side of the building. Damage was estimated at $50,000 by Fire Chief Fred Dye.

The men, John J. McDonald, John Cotter and Antonio Kozlouskis, all Stoughton residents, were hurled across the room, receiving bruises and burns on hands and faces.

Fire Chief Pye said he believed the explosion was caused by a spark in the curing machine.

'L' HEAD QUITS Manning Named

Bernard J. Rothwell resigned today as chairman of the Boston Elevated board of directors, and as a member.

He was succeeded as chairman by Joseph P. Manning, another director.

The place vacated by Rothwell was filled by P. A. O'Connell.

Rothwell's resignation resulted, he announced, from the increased burden of his duties as chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Boston, and in private business.

Washington, Dec. 28 (AP)—A forecast that the new Congress will be "lucky" if it adjourns by July 1 was made today by Representative Byrns of Tennessee, who yesterday talked over the situation with President Roosevelt.

26 Million Asked For Cape Canal

By International News Service

Washington, Dec. 28—Improvement of Cape Cod Canal in Massachusetts, at an estimated cost of $26,000,000 for construction, with $400,000 annually for operation and maintenance, was recommended today by Major-General Edward M. Markham, army chief of engineers, in a report to be submitted to Congress.

The report of the Board of Army Engineers, which Markham approved, recommended that the existing Cape Cod canal project be modified to provide for an open canal 32 feet deep, A width of 540 feet was advised in the land cut, 500 feet in a straight channel in Buzzards bay to Wings Neck, and 700 feet beyond Wings Neck for a harbor of refuge for small vessels. Mooring basin, an improved lighting system and other accessory and minor features.

The $400,000 annually also would include maintenance of new bridges now under construction.

CURLEY AID TO BARE ELY POLITICAL JOB 'DEALS' ON RADIO

Battle Call Sounded

GOVERNOR-ELECT BITTER OVER "DISHONOR" TO OFFICE

Aroused by the flood of appointments and sudden switches of high officials, Dick Grant, chief secretary for Governor-elect Curley, today arranged for a broadcast tomorrow night on Governor Ely's last minute "deals."

Grant will talk from 6:45 until 7 p. m. over stations WBZ and WBZA on "Recent Tradings on Beacon Hill." It will be his first radio appearance since the night of the Boston Garden rally for Curley on the Sunday night before election.

Grant declined to go to any length into the details of his talk, but hinted that the switch of Police Commissioner Hultman and Joseph J. Leonard will occupy a good part of the talk.

Secretary Grant's announcement following a statement from Governor-elect Curley in which Curley flayed both Leonard and Governor Ely. He hinted that he may seek a way to remove Leonard.

The governor-elect's statement says:

"Governor Ely, in the closing hours of his administration, has been guilty of the most despicable and vicious assault upon popular government ever recorded in the history of the commonwealth.

Political Trade

"At the very time when the newspapers were carrying the report of the police commissioner, in which he set forth the necessity for permanency and freedom from political control in the office of police commissioner, he was forced to resign in order that a political trade made in the recent campaign be fulfilled.

"The trade in question was the rewarding of a plum tool with the important office of police commissioner, in return for his tarnishing the character, standing and reputation of the governor-elect.

"I have been aware that the policy of Governor Ely has been to fill places as vacated with men hostile to me and lacking in the experience necessary for the proper conduct of the office to which they have been appointed, but I have refrained from protest.

"But I believe it my duty to protest when men whose terms will not expire until 1935 are forced or hired to resign in order that their positions may be filled by incompetent political wardheelers, barren of experience and lacking in fidelity to the cause of honorable and orderly government.

In comment on the Curley statement, Governor Ely blamed the Governor-elect's post campaign threats for the switch of Leonard to the police post. He said:

"My responsibility is to fill vacancies as they occur. Mr. Leonard has performed his duties in the finance commission in the manner he considered to be in the public interest. It appears that he was to be penalized for so doing.

"When Mr. Hultman resigned it seemed to me that the police commissioner of Boston should be a man of splendid character, and I, therefore, placed him in that position to administer the department affairs for the good of all."

Governor Ely and Governor-elect Curley were destined to meet today at a conference of governors in Hotel Statler, but Governor Ely left for his home in Westfield.

GALE-BATTERED Liner Docks

Storm-battered and ice-sheathed, the liner Dominion-Halsey, Captain Edgar Lowe commanding and a crew of eight on board, tied up at South Boston today from Halifax.

For 12 hours the lay-do while mountainous seas, stirred by a howling nor'wester, battered her 90 miles east of Boston. Her deck gear was smashed. One of her boats was carried away, her engine room flooded and a hatch was stove in. Joseph Hubley, cook, was slightly injured.

must find out what it's all about."

On his idea of the police department as a whole he commented:

"It averages up pretty good but there is certain room for improvement. I'm not ready to say right now what they'll be."

Pressed for more detail of his plans for changes he replied:

"My mind is free and open right now. All I can say is that I will do my best to cover the best interests of the public."

J. Paul Keefe, former campaign manager for Governor Ely and more recently turned down for appointment to the Boston licensing board, is believed to be slated to take over the Schwartz post.

Thomas P. y, a member of Governor Ely's secretarial staff, is said to be the choice, under the terms of the "deal," for the post of secretary to the commissioner.

Schwartz said he had not tendered his resignation and would not talk on prospects of doing so.

Gill Silent

Gill had been offered many lucrative positions in the past, but was prevailed upon by Commissioner Hultman to continue as secretary. He had no comment.

It was pointed out, also, that the new commissioner may appoint a new superintendent if he should so desire.

The new commissioner arrived at headquarters with Hultman. The two posed for pictures together. As Hultman left his successor he warned:

"Joe, on this job you get roses today and brickbats tomorrow."

In the police commissioner's car, piloted by Sergeant John Lyons, the two sat and talked for about five minutes before entering headquarters at 9:35.

The first floor corridor was crowded with reporters and cameramen as well as scores of taxicab drivers who had called for renewal of their hackney licenses.

Pushing through the crowd, Hultman waved to the newspapermen and told his successor:

"These are all my friends, the newspapermen."

Leonard smiled and remarked:

"I think I can get along with them nicely. At least, I hope so."

Hultman carried a large black leather bag into which he packed many personal belongings. He then outlined the layout of the building.

Heir's Ex To Wed

Seattle, Dec. 28 (INS)—Mrs. Sybil Esme Spreckels, former wife of Adolph B. Spreckels III, heir to the sugar millions, will marry Ben F. Dodge, rental manager, Saturday, friends learned today.

Mrs. Spreckels received her final decree in April. She was married to Spreckels in June, 1927, and sued for divorce in 1932. Mrs. Spreckels received custody of their daughter, and $23,750 in alimony.

15 LYNCHINGS Toll for 1934

Tuskegee, Ala., Dec. 28 (AP)—Records of Tuskegee Institute today showed there were 15 lynchings in the nation during 1934—all Negroes. There were 28 lynchings in 1933.

Leonard Gets Tip For "Alibi"

From bouquets to brickbats . . . it's all in a day in the changing life of a police commissioner, Joseph J. Leonard learned today from his predecessor, Eugene C. Hultman.

Retiring Commissioner Hultman, visiting Boston's new Police Commissioner Leonard at his Roanoke avenue residence this morning took time off to mention unofficially some of the advantages and disadvantages of the job.

"Joe," he said, "today it's bouquets, tomorrow brickbats.

Turning to Mrs. Leonard, Hultman continued:

Reward!

I will pay $50 to anyone giving information as to the whereabouts of my mother to either Mayor Frederick W. Mansfield or myself.

—Leonard McLean, 192 Sherman street, Perth Amboy, N. J.

That was the tenor of a letter received today by the mayor from McLean, who said that he had not seen his mother since 1906—when he was two years old—and that he now feels that she is in need of his help.

As Jennie Edith McLean, she came from her native New Brunswick, N. J., to Roxbury in 1903, he wrote. He was born here March 16, 1904.

Anonymous letters have caused him to believe that his mother is alive and in need.

Canal Locks Drained For "Bigelow"

Windsor Locks, Ct., Dec. 28—Draining of the power dam alongside the Connecticut river was begun today to recover a body, which may be that of Dr. George H. Bigelow, missing director of the Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston.

The draining began at 10:45 and must continue for 24 to 36 hours before the water level is low enough to recover the body, which was seen below the surface early Christmas morning.

Belief that the body may be that of the former Massachusetts health commissioner, who vanished Dec. 3, was expressed today by Dr. E. F. Carniglia, medical examiner, who saw the body early Tuesday.

Police said they had located two men, who saw the body at the same time and are certain it is not "Ducky" Drake, a local resident, who recently vanished.

Two Massachusetts state police sergeants, J. Warren Toelken, official photographer, and John Dempsey, are en route here to attempt identification by fingerprints.

Ice had so jammed the sucker machinery today that it was not visible. Before the ice was sucked in, however, Dr. Carniglia and Tiglio Lenati, who found it, succeeded in securing it by lassoeing the left arm and right leg with chains.

Dr. Carniglia said the body is that of a man about 45, 165-170 pounds, six feet tall.

NAVAL OFFICER Died a Suicide

Honolulu, Dec. 28 (AP)—Lieut. Joseph Thomas Shechan, naval officer, whose body was found in a vacant house here, was reported today by Detective Lieutenant Michael Morse to have committed suicide by cutting his throat.

Washington, Dec. 28 (AP)—Navy department records show Lieutenant Joseph Thomas Sheenan was born at Montville, Conn. His present address was given as (69 May street), Worcester, Mass.

7 TO 10 YEARS For Girl's Death

Ralph Polian, 35, of Floyd street, Dorchester, owner of a drug store in Cambridge, was sent to state prison for a term of seven to 10 years today after three pleas were denied in Middlesex court.

Polian was sentenced last May after he had been found guilty of illegal surgery, which was followed by the death of Miss Berlettie Parker, 17, of Cambridge. A stay was granted pending an appeal to the Supreme Court, which was recently denied.

Polian wept bitterly as he was led from the courtroom.

Carol Weds Magda

In Secret

WED DURING HIS EXILE, SAYS DIPLOMAT

(Copyright, 1934, by International News Service)

Vienna, Dec. 28—King Carol of Romania and Mme. Magda Lupesque, titian-haired beauty for whom he once renounced his throne, are married, a trustworthy Rumanian diplomat told International News Service today.

Marriage, as well as love, has kept the two together despite attempts of many leading Rumanian politicians to oust Mme.

Mme. Magda Lupesque

Lupescu from the capital and bring about a return of Princess Helen, former queen who divorced Carol in 1928, said the informant.

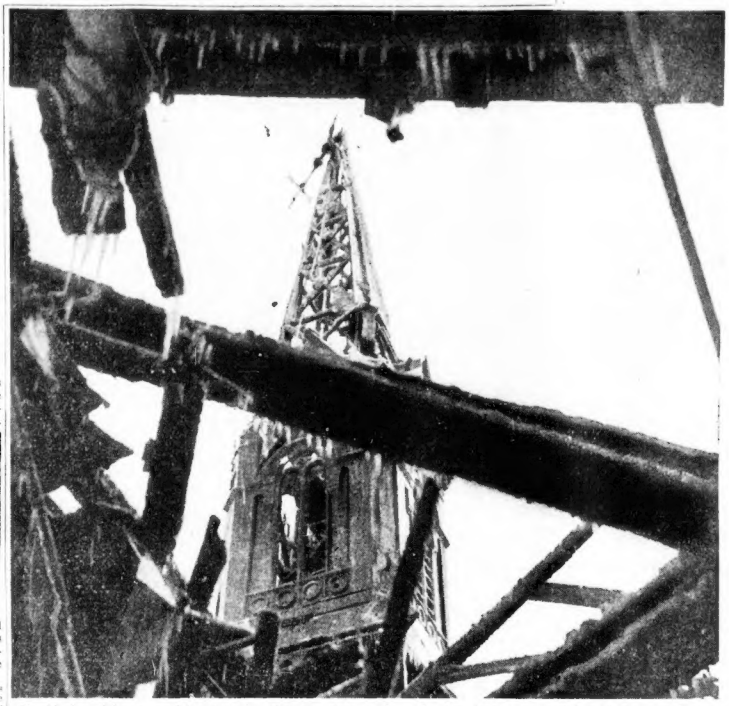
King Carol renounced his rights to his throne in 1925 and left the country with Mme. Lupescu, his "Bibi." Queen Helen divorced him in 1928, while Rumania was being ruled by regents with their son, the boy Michael, as King. In 1930 Carol staged a coup, returning to power and returning Michael to the status of crown prince.

Mme. Lupescu herself, the informant revealed, is responsible for the morganatic marriage having been kept secret, and she herself started the rumors, now widespread, that she is secretly married to an "army officer."

"I know the marriage documents exist," the informant declared. "I do not know where they were married, but it apparently was during their journey in exile through France, Belgium and England. They both lived at Barbu Gonescu's villa at Godstone, England, during this period."

Burk Gets Silver

Milford, Dec. 28—Michael Baccamuzzi, 20, and John Trematore, 19, were under arrest today on charges of breaking and entering the home of former State Senator W. R. Burk here, following the recovery in Boston of Burk's silverware, valued at $300. The two youths will be arraigned here.



Fire-blackened beams and the tottering skeleton of its steeple were all that flames had left today of the Central Congregational church of Jamaica Plain, largest of its denomination in the East. This view is from the interior of the auditorium, looking upward through the roof. Damage was set today at more than $100,000 and firemen were engaged in the perilous work of razing such portions of the big structure as remained still standing.

Ransom Link

BANKERS AND AUDITORS TO TESTIFY

Flemington, N. J., Dec. 28—The state will declare at Bruno Richard Hauptmann's trial, a prosecuting official disclosed today, that the Lindbergh kidnap-slaying suspect has had in his possession in the last two years $49,600 more than all his avowed sources of income provided.

The money will be identified by the State, this official said, as the bulk of the $50,000 ransom which Dr. John F. Condon, Lindbergh intermediary, paid in a Bronx cemetery, April 2, 1932.

Efforts to trace the ransom notes were redoubled after Hauptmann's arrest and the State now is reported to have obtained evidence linking all but a few hundred dollars to Hauptmann.

Scores of auditors, accountants, Federal investigators and detectives who ran down the money and checked it are reputedly on the State's witness list.

Clerks, and one or two executives of the New York banking house of J. P. Morgan and Company, where the packet of ransom bills was made up and the serial numbers carefully noted, are also expected to testify.

Single Motive

A single motive—extortion—led to the crime, State officials believe. The new evidence will be used by the State, a member of the prosecuting staff said, in its efforts to prove that Hauptmann alone abducted Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., collected the ransom, and disposed of it himself.

Defense attorneys hold that a "gang" committed the crime, while Hauptmann told New York police that the ransom money, about $15,000, found in his garage, was given to him by Isador Fisch, a friend, who has since died.

New witnesses have been found, it was reported by a state source, to support the state's claim that Hauptmann disposed of some of the money long before the time he said Fisch entrusted it to his care.

At the same time it was also learned that the state will not accept the offer of John Hughes Curtis, Norfolk, Va., shipbuilder and convicted hoaxer of the case, to testify for the prosecution against Hauptmann.

In connection with Curtis, it was understood, however, that the defense is very anxious for him to testify in behalf of the German carpenter.

Russian Leader Talks of War

WAR IS WHAT HE SEES

War Near! Russian Declares

Thompson, Ct., Dec. 28—While cables from Moscow today told of the wholesale Soviet preparations to fight activities of an "underground terroristic organization," "Russia's future Hitler," from headquarters of the Russian Fascists of America, issued a new pronunciamento today.

The Russian Fascist leader, known here as Anastese Andreevitch Vonsiatzky, declared that "war is not far away."

He said he frankly looked for war between Japan and Russia, and that as soon as the Soviets are involved the Russian Fascists, some 20,000 of them, would move decisively.

Meanwhile, in "Pravada," the official Soviet news organ, it was charged that the alleged confession of Leonid Nicolaieff, accused assassin of Sergei Kiroff, had told of the terrorists being aided by a consul of a foreign country.

1700 BILLS Filed Already

By Associated Press

Washington, Dec. 28—Here it is only six days before the gavel falls and members of the new House have prepared a mere 1700 bills for introduction the opening day.

The measures are coming in at the rate of 200 a day, however, and by January 3 will approach much nearer the opening day total of last Congress, which was 2820.

Modern Girl O. K.--Except She Smokes

Bayonne, N. J., Dec. 28—The modern girl?—Oh, yes, the modern girl . . .

She's just a little bit of all right, said Mrs Rosa Winship Shaw on her 100th birthday today.

Now when Mrs Shaw was a modern girl, back in Wilton, Me.

"My father was the village blacksmith and he purchased the first stove ever to appear in the neighborhood.

"For several weeks it gave no warmth before we found we were mistaken in putting the wood in the oven each day and setting it afire."

Test Tube Or Magnet Girl? Tech Has a Name for Her

M. I. T. boys have a "slanguage" of their own when it comes to discussing their girl friends.

The scientific vocabulary centers about the bits of apparatus which the students use regularly in laboratories of the college.

"She's my 'magnet,'" means that the young girl is some attraction.

If a student knows a girl who always is complaining that the dance music is slow, or that the party is awfully dull compared to one which she went to at Corneli they term her a "strain gauge." A strain gauge is a device which the scientists use in measuring how much a certain metal stretches before breaking. Perhaps the girl is sizing up the lad's patience.

A girl may see through excuses for having missed your date last night. At Technology she is an "X-ray tube."

Firemen Ouster

After overriding Mayor Russell's veto of their order opposing the retirements of several members of the Cambridge police department, the Cambridge City Council was presented a list of seven firemen recommended for retirement, with pension.

5 ROUTED BY BLAZE IN SOMERVILLE

A woman aroused her husband and three children in time for them to flee to safety in their night clothing, today, when a two alarm fire swept through their home at 13 Melvin street, Somerville.

A fireman was injured in a fall from a ladder.

Water curtains prevented the fire from spreading to the residential district.

Mrs. Ella Vernotte, who was awakened by the smoke, awakened her husband, William J. Vernotte and their three children, Lloyd, Audrey and Natalie. They fled to the home of neighbors.

A fall from a ladder injured one of several firemen fighting this blaze in the home of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Vernotte, 13 Melvin street, Somerville. Four occupants of the house had a narrow escape.

When he had both arms, her husband used to beat her, Mrs. Manuel Souza, of Gloucester, said. So four years ago she sued for divorce.

Some time later, however, she told Judge Edward R. O'Brien, in Salem court, Souza lost an arm and she returned to live with him.

His handicap failed to prevent him from reverting to his old habit of pulling her hair and punching her, she said, and she re-applied for divorce.

Judge O'Brien dismissed the first petition on the grounds that it had never been prosecuted, and took the second, which was not contested, under advisement.

WIFE ACCUSED

By Universal Service

Chicago, Dec. 28—Mrs. Anna Ericksen, 38-year-old mother of six children, was reported named in true bills with two of her youthful former dancing partners here on a charge of murdering her husband, George Ericksen, tavern owner at the municipal airport.

James Senese, 19, and Elmer Krueger, 22, appeared before the grand jury and were said to have repeated their recent confessions—Senese that he shot Ericksen to death on Mrs. Ericksen's promise of $500 of the victim's insurance money, and Krueger that he was with Senese when the shooting took place.

COLLEGE Men Ask PROBE

INVESTIGATION WELCOME

By Universal Service

New York, Dec. 28—Four New York educators announced today they would welcome an investigation of their records by the McCormack-Dickstein Congressional committee on un-American activities.

They also asked that their records of Americanism be compared to that of William Randolph Hearst.

The statement follows:

"Certainly every member of the group who signed the request that certain practices in yellow journalism at Syracuse and Columbia Universities be investigated will welcome such an investigation.

What Is Needed

"They will be glad to have their record in war and in peace compared with that of William Randolph Hearst. They will welcome the opportunity to have their record on Americanism set forth. This is precisely what is needed.

"If it is un-American for radicals to advocate jobs and a decent standard of living for millions of Americanites who are unemployed and living in a misery which Mr. Hearst in his luxury and vast wealth cannot vision or care about, then those persons who signed the request that Mr. Hearst's yellow journalism be investigated are radical and un-American.

"If it is un-American to declare that all citizens should have the right of life, liberty, and pursuit of happiness, vouchsafed in our Declaration of Independence and the freedom set forth by the fathers of our country in our American Constitution, then the men who protested against Mr. Hearst's latest attempt to mislead the American people are un-American.

"This investigation will be of great value to the American people if it includes the activities of Mr. Hearst as well as those of Mr. Woll.

"Just what is Mr. Hearst's record in war and in peace? This is a question which should be answered, not only by a congressional committee but by every patriotic organization, including the American Legion, and by every public American citizen."

(Signed)

"Professor Charles A. Beard, Professor George S. Counts, Of Teachers College.
Professor Robert Chase Speer, Of N. Y. U.

PRESIDENT IS LIKENED TO STUART KINGS

By Universal Service

Chicago, Dec. 28—Assumption of greater powers by the executive branch of the government now places an American President on comparatively the same level as a Tudor or Stuart king in England, Roscoe Pound, dean of the Harvard Law School, said in an address at a Chicago Bar Association luncheon.

Dean Pound declared:

"As a Tudor or Stuart king ruled with Parliament if he could and in spite of Parliament if he must, so an American President or governor rules with Congress or the Legislature if he can, but in spite of them if he must."

Fish Calls 10 Colleges Red Hotbeds

By International News Service

Washington, Dec. 28—Charging a pronounced rise of Communist sentiment exists among the youth, Rep. Hamilton Fish (R), of New York, today characterized ten leading American colleges as "hotbeds" of subversive activities.

He named Harvard, Vassar, City College of New York, Columbia, Smith, Wesleyan (Conn.), Chicago, Wisconsin, California and Washington University.

"The most pronounced activities of the Communists and the Socialists are among the younger generation," Fish declared. "This is particularly evident among the schools and colleges."

Woll in Demand For Red Probe

educators have sent you a telegram calling your attention to 'a campaign of terrorism against teachers in American colleges, universities, schools and even private schools.'

"This, of course, refers to recent articles and editorials appearing in the publications of Mr. William Randolph Hearst which report that certain college professors are allegedly engaged in teaching subversive propaganda.

Inquiry Demanded

"Such revelations ought not to be dismissed as attempts to 'drum up a red scare', nor should we take too seriously the reported statement of Professor George S. Counts, of Teachers' College, Columbia University, to the effect that 'If William Randolph Hearst succeeds in his efforts, he will reduce American universities and schools to the ignominious condition of German schools and universities under Hitler'.

"Nevertheless, these allegations and counter-allegations present questions of sufficient interest to the American people to demand a thorough and impartial inquiry.

"If there are any instructors in our institutions of learning who teach the doctrine that organized government should be overthrown by force or violence, or who aid, abet or voluntarily associate with the Communist Party of the United States, the public should be made cognizant of that fact.

"Nor is this all. Those in authority should in such cases immediately take steps to rid their faculties of such intransigeantes.

"If on the other hand, a careful scrutiny of the facts should develop that nothing more than 'a free and impartial inquiry and discussion' of important economic, social and political problems is carried on in such universities and colleges, then we must be gratified to learn that such professors are fulfilling a much needed educational function.

Vital Issue Raised

"I am aware that such an inquiry would inevitably be befouled by assertions that academic freedom is being curtailed. Nevertheless, I am convinced that if your committee is continued during the next session of Congress, it could do no greater public service than to ascertain precisely what academic freedom is and what are its proper limits.

"Indeed, I believe that you would find that academic freedom, like other civil liberties of drum up a red scare', nor should we take too seriously the reported statement of Professor George S. Counts, of Teachers' College, Columbia University, to the effect that 'If William Randolph Hearst succeeds in his efforts, he will reduce American universities and schools to the ignominious condition of German schools and universities under Hitler'.

"Nevertheless, these allegations and counter-allegations present questions of sufficient interest to the American people to demand a thorough and impartial inquiry.

"If there are any instructors in our institutions of learning who teach the doctrine that organized government should be overthrown by force or violence, or who aid, abet or voluntarily associate with the Communist Party of the United States, the public should be made cognizant of that fact.

"Nor is this all. Those in authority should in such cases immediately take steps to rid their faculties of such intransigeantes.

"If on the other hand, a careful scrutiny of the facts should develop that nothing more than 'a free and impartial inquiry and discussion' of important economic, social and political problems is carried on in such universities and colleges, then we must be gratified to learn that such professors are fulfilling a much needed educational function.

"Students and their parents must have some liberty in the choice of what the student must learn. He should not be compelled to listen to subversive or revolutionary doctrines if he does not wish to do so, simply because he has matriculated and has paid his tuition in the college.

"Mr. Hearst has raised an issue that should be thoroughly thrashed out at the earliest possible moment. If the life of your committee is extended by the incoming Congress, the National Civic Federation would appreciate the opportunity of presenting to you further facts relative to this field of inquiry.

"Very truly yours,

"MATTHEW WOLL

"Acting President."

HELD FOR GUN

Charged with illegal possession of a dangerous weapon, Michael Sacco, 27, of Kenwood avenue, Saugus, was arrested by Everett police following the accidental shooting of his fiance, Rose Sacco, 19yo.

According to police, the girl was shot in the hand when she accidentally discharged a revolver in his pocket while she was looking for candy. The accident occurred at the home of Anthony Sacco, the girl's father, on Main street, Everett.

JAPAN Awaits CRISIS

(Copyright, 1934, by International News Service)

Tokio, Dec. 28—The year 1935 will "set Japan free."

She will be able to plunge forward to fulfillment of her demand for naval parity on the Pacific, as well as in pursuance of her strong Asiatic policy, unhampered by other powers, Captain Sekine, naval spokesman, declared today.

"The year 1935 is one of a national crisis for Japan.

"It is in this year that she bids farewell to the League of Nations. Then that she will attempt a fresh start to contribute toward international peace by concluding a new pact to replace the Washington treaty.

The Manchurian and South Sea mandate problems also bring Japan into a crisis year, as the powers may attempt to sound out Tokio's attitude in the 1935 naval conference, he reasons, saying:

"This conference for Japan is a conference for a demand for equality on the Pacific, and nothing more. However, anxious a nation may be to carry out its domestic policies peacefully, she must be well backed by preparedness.

"This fact is well known to the Japanese, whose sour experience at the London and Washington naval conferences proved it."

By Associated Press

London, Dec. 28—Admiral William H. Standley of the United States and Admiral Isoroku Yamamoto of Japan met today to discuss the naval situation as it appears now that the Tri-power discussions have broken up.

It was understood that the Japanese admiral outlined Tokyo's instructions t at the Japanese delegation is to discuss with the British a possible approach to a compromise.

These instructions, however, did not indicate that there would be any change in Japan's demands for equality.

LOTTERY RAID

Los Angeles, Dec. 28—Several thousand additional lottery tickets were seized by district attorney's investigators when they raided a downtown hotel here.

The seizures included tickets on a $100,000 pool based on the Pasadena Rose Bowl football game

Freedom Pledged

Chicago, Dec. 28 (AP)—Edward L. Bernays, New York public relations counsellor, told the American Political Science Association today that American institutions will remain free as long as freedom of speech, press and propaganda remain.

Delay Murder Trial

Peabody, Dec. 28—Another continuance was granted in District court today in the case of Bernard Sobocinski, 23, of Derby street, Salem, charged with the murder on Dec. 14, of Mrs. Florence R. Pierce, 48, of Jacobs street, Peabody. By agreement of counsel the case went over until Jan. 7.

Bandits Get $100

Two armed bandits are being sought by police today for the robbery of a store on Norwood street, Everett. Forcing Harry Baseman, 38, and his assistant, Melvin Litvak, 26, both of Everett, into a closet, the men removed approximately $100 from cash registers.

BARGAIN Studied On BONUS SILENT ON COMPROMISE

By Associated Press

Washington, Dec. 28—Strategy to strike a "bargain" on the soldiers' bonus, if the Democratic high command considers such a move warranted when the $2,200,000,000 issue comes to a head, was being studied tentatively today by some administration leaders in Congress.

They emphasized they had no hint from the White House. Though there is much talk of possible "compromises," the President has made no statement of his attitude on them. But with sentiment among returning members heralded as so strong for bonus payment, these leaders, as one put it, are hoping to "make the best bargain we can."

A dozen or more methods of paying the bonus are expected to be proposed in Congress. They will range from limited payments to needy veterans all the way to issuing new currency to pay all the bonus certificates in full immediately at an estimated cost of $2,200,000,000.

Three-Point Job Program Mapped

By Associated Press

Washington, Dec. 28—The Roosevelt administration, mapping a new approach today to the government's paramount problem, planned three changes of major import in its unemployment relief policies.

1. By Feb. 1, the Federal Emergency Relief Administration hopes to have returned all the "unemployables" on its rolls to the care of the states. Administrator Harry L. Hopkins said that, with their dependents, they number about 20 per cent of those on federal relief.

2. Hoping that increased activity in private business would diminish the army of jobless, President Roosevelt sought to work out an elastic budget for relief.

3. There were new indications that President Roosevelt desires to eliminate direct cash grants, so far as that is considered possible, for the employable people on federa relief, and substitute work aid.

With the completion of the campaign announced by Hopkins, the task of direct relief would become exclusively the province of the states and local communities.

BOOTLEG DEATHS UNDER U. S. PROBE

Investigation by the federal grand jury began here today in connection with alleged rum running near Beverly that is said to have some connection with the deaths of Henry Cooper, 24, and his brother, Allen, 26, of that city.

Their bodies were recovered from the Merrimac River at Newburyport after they had been missing since Dec. 12.

Assistant United States Attorney Joseph J. Hurley was expected to bring more than 30 witnesses before the jury, including Alfred Cooper, father of the dead men, Beverly and state police, coast guardsmen and townsmen.

Baroness on Lonely Isle Slain, New Belief

By Associated Press

San Diego, Calif., Dec. 28—Belief the Baroness Eloise Bonsquet De Wagner and her mate, Robert Phillipson, were killed last spring on the Adam and Eve Island of Charles in the Galapagos, was expressed here today by Capt. William Borthen, discoverer of bodies of two other colonists on Marchena Island.

He said the conclusion that the baroness and Phillipson were slain by Alfred Rudolph Lorenz, whose body was one of the two found, was the only conceivable explanation of the disappearance of the strange couple last April.

The secreting of their bodies on the old convict island would be a simple matter, said the master of the tuna clipper Santa Amaro.

"We know that Lorenz had lived in fear of his life, and that he had reported in March that Phillipson and the baroness already had dug a grave for him," said Captain Borthen.

"I am convinced that the bodies of the baroness and Phillipson are on the island."

Anne Gould To Be Rewed As Catholic

By Associated Press

Montreal, Dec. 28—Forced to delay a change of her religion from Protestant to Roman Catholic because of ecclesiastical laws, Anne Gould, great-granddaughter of Jay Gould, United States railroad builder, prepared today for an early return to the United States with her husband, Frank A. Meador.

The couple, meantime, left for Quebec today for a few days of winter sports before proceeding to Orkville, N. Y., in the Catskills, to spend the New Year.

The New York socialite was married to Meador, a San Saba, Texas, actor, by a justice of the peace at a registry office in Harrison, N. Y., Wednesday.

Mrs. Meador hopes to become a Catholic as soon as possible so that the marriage ceremony of the Catholic church can be performed that she might "be bound closer" to her husband, who is a Catholic.

Anne Gould

She had hoped to be married as a Catholic in Quebec but was forced to change plans, when it was learned Mgr. Georges Gauthier, archbishop coadjutor of Montreal, is out of town. The archbishop would have to give a special dispensation to allow the marriage to be performed without publication of banns.

Stork Races With China Refugees

By Associated Press

Changsha, China, Dec. 28—A group of fugitive missionaries which arrived here from bandit-threatened regions today revealed that while they successfully evaded brigand armies, they were unable to outdistance the stork.

They brought with them two newly-born Americans, who came into the world at a little Chinese village where the refugees paused in flight.

Among other foreign missionaries reaching here were Fathers Anthony Maloney of Louisville, Ky., and W. F. Berard of Cambridge, Mass., both of the American Passionist procuration, who escaped through the gates of Hofu, seven miles from Changteh, at the same moment the brigand army entered.

Fleeing to Changteh, where they joined Fathers Timothy McDermott, Pittsburgh, Pa., Francis Flaherty of Cincinnati, O., and A. J. Fogarty, of Winchendon, Mass., and escaped in junks to Changsha.

The Rev. F. W. Berard was a protege of the Rev. Thomas B. Garrahan, pastor of the Sacred Heart church, East Boston, who was relieved to learn of his safety.

Father Berard's parents live in Waltham, and he was educated at the Christian Brothers' school there, later attending Boston College high school and the Passionist Seminary in Union City, N. J.

SCOOP! President DID IT TELLS HOW YALE BEATEN

Washington, Dec. 28—The nation's youngest editors, who write for the daily college papers throughout the country, came to the White House today and heard from President Roosevelt a story of how college editors worked when he was at Harvard.

The 37 college men spent half an hour with Mr. Roosevelt and then left for their meeting of the Intercollegiate Daily Editorial Association here.

The President described how, as editor of the Harvard Crimson, he once scooped the Yale daily paper by nine seconds on a Harvard-Yale football game.

He moved a one-man press into the stadium and said that copy was set up as fast as the plays were made. Almost immediately after the game ended, the Crimson extra was being sold to the crowd.

The students told the President they were deeply interested in freedom of the press for college dailies. They said that four college editors have been removed this year because of editorial expression, and they said they did not intend to stand for such tactics any longer.

$25,000 BEQUESTS FOR HARVARD

Peabody Museum and the library at Harvard were each $25,000 richer today from bequests in the will of Dr. Roland B. Dixon, filed in Worcester Probate Court. Dr. Dixon was a professor in anthropology at the University.

The bequests stipulated that the money be used for the purchase of books. The will instructed that all Dr. Dixon's data and lecture notes be destroyed.

William Parkinson and his wife, Ellen, formerly employed in the professor's household, were each left $5,000 outright and an additional $200 for each year that they were with him since 1918.

The remainder goes to charity and friends.

More Trouble

Paris, Dec. 28 (AP)—Thousands of foreigners, including many refugee German Jews, are being forced to leave France as a result of inability to obtain working permits.

Poles and Italians are among those particularly affected. The promise of Premier Flandin to curtail the employment of foreigners in France led to restrictions. About 25,000 German refugees have flocked to France.

Sobol, Wife Hurt

By International News Service

New York, Dec. 28—Injured when the cab in which they were riding collided with another car, Louis Sobol, Broadway columnist, and his wife, Mrs. Leah Sobol, were in a hospital today.

Mrs. Sobol suffered a broken nose, and her husband a fractured finger on the right hand.

Conscience Pays

St. Albans, Vt., Dec. 28 (AP)—Central Vermont Railway's "Conscience Fund" was saved today from being a complete blank this year when J. B. Wood, assistant treasurer, received $5 from one whose signature was "an employe."

Liner Is Saved

Halifax, Dec. 28—Rescued from Sable Island, and the rock-fanged Sambro ledges off the Nova Scotia coast, the rudderless Emile Francqui is safe in anchorage here. Passengers slept soundly for the first time in five days.

...NIGHT VIGIL ...RIED ON BY OFFICERS

Police tried throughout the early hours today to trap the sniper who has been shooting .25-calibre steel-jacketed pistol bullets into living quarters of two families in Webb Park, South Boston.

A detail of plain clothesmen, under the direction of Sergeant Raymond Monahan, of Station 6, watched the house all night in an effort to trap the man, but without success.

For three successive nights, starting Christmas Eve, either the family of Daniel Daly on the third floor, or the family of Frank Moran on the first, narrowly escaped death from the sniper.

The first time, two bullets were fired into Mrs. Julia Daly's bedroom, barely missing her as she lay in bed.

The next night, a bullet crashed into the wall three feet above the head of Moran, and at almost the same instant, another tore into Mrs. Daly's bedroom, a foot from a previous bullet hole.

Wednesday night, Moran, who was reading in the kitchen, heard two more shots. He rushed to the door, but saw no one.

Thursday morning, a short search was rewarded by the discovery of one of the bullets imbedded in the roof.

The next night a detail of plain-clothesmen, under the direction of Sergeant James Culliton, of the Athens street station, were placed about the house, and there was no repetition of the sniping.

WRECK SOLVED

By Universal Service

Toronto, Dec. 28—E. S. Lynch, forward brakeman of a Christmas excursion train, thought he was preventing a wreck by throwing a switch but instead he threw the Detroit-Toronto flyer into the excursion train, causing the death of 15 persons and injuries to 50.

This explanation of the wreck at Dundas, Ont., was given by W. A. Kingsland, general regional manager of Canadian National Railways, after an official inquiry. Lynch made no attempt to sidetrack responsibility, it was said.

Deaths Mount in Train Blast

By Associated Press

Powelton, W. Va., Dec. 28—The best surgeons of the mining country fought against death in a crowded little hospital today trying to hold down the toll of a locomotive explosion that already has claimed 16 lives.

Forty-two other miners, on their way to work in the Elkhorn-Piney Coal Company's operation, were injured in the blast yesterday. Eight of them may die. Twenty-seven were able to leave the hospital after treatment.

The little mining town of McDunn where the engine's boiler was hurled into the air and crashed through the wooden passenger car is stilled by grief and the mine to which the men had been going is closed.

Thomas E. Lightfoot, of Pittsburgh, engineer in charge of accident prevention for the Koppers Coal Company, owner of the Elkhorn-Piney Company, arrived early today and said:

"All I can do is offer to help these bereaved people. The cause of the accident may never be known; we can only wait for a boiler inspector from Washington to try to find out the reason."

STOLEN! MONUMENT LIGHTNING RODS

By Universal Service.

Washington, Dec. 28—Guards at the Washington monument were a bit red-faced today.

A bold thief walked away with 107 gold-plated, platinum-tipped lightning rod points, part of the elaborate equipment designed to protect the shaft from storm damage. The points were valued at $856.

A private company, now engaged in cleaning and repairing the monument, will have to stand the loss.

$225 HOLDUP

Two "step ladder bandits" were being sought today by Cambridge police, following a $225 holdup at a pharmacy on Massachusetts avenue.

The two entered the store and forced Alvin Sperber, 30, of Westmore road, Mattapan and Morris Yarmaloff of Payston street, Roxbury, to lie on the floor beneath a step ladder. They then took $125 in cash and $100 in merchandise.

Boy, Shot, Dies

Torrington, Ct., Dec. 29 (AP)—Daniel Ladd, 9, accidentally wounded in the back by an older brother, died today in a hospital. The boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Ladd of Bronxville, N. Y., was shot when his brother tripped and fell while carrying a rifle.

FLAYED POLITICS IN HUEY'S SCHOOL

Chicago, Dec. 28—Executive committeemen of the Association of American Law Schools here issued a report in which they alleged political domination is undermining various educational facilities of Louisiana State University.

Without mentioning the name of Senator Huey Long, the report recommended additional investigation of the situation at the university.

It deferred any disciplinary action, however, out of consideration to the LSU law faculty, which the report characterized as having "acted with propriety, so far as it has had power to do so."

Today and every day you will find excellent used cars advertised in the Automobile-For-Sale Columns of the American and Advertiser.

"Drank Like a Lady," Says Newton Woman in Divorce

In a bitter counter-fight to the divorce action brought against her by her husband, Mrs. Florence E. Wallace, noted Newton sportswoman, denied his specific charges and entered charges of her own.

She said that she "drank moderately, as a lady should," and charged William Wallace, Jr., with excessive drinking.

Wallace charging unfaithfulness with three Boston men, said that he found her and Attorney Francis B. Turner of Waltham together in a room in a Langdon street, Newton, house on September 24.

At that time, Wm. Wallace, Jr. he alleged, she said:

"You have been looking for this for a long time; now that you have it, what are you going to do about it?"

Turner then suggested that they "talk it over," Wallace charged, and said:

"I am very sorry. I am no home wrecker. I was given to understand that you were definitely separated. I am not going to see her again."

Mrs. Wallace, in her answer to the charges, stated that at no time during the past year had she entertained Turner in her Newton home except in the presence of her husband.

In answer to Wallace's charge that she was friendly with Otis M. Slocum, of Brookline, and Edward Russel, of Quincy, in 1933, she declared that she had not entertained either of them within the past two years when her husband was not there.

Mrs. Wallace further denied having absented herself from a yachting party in New York last summer.

She said that she had not been drunk in the last two years, nor had she needed to be helped home from a neighbor's house.

Wallace, in his reply to his wife's charge of excessive drinking, said that he had not been drunk "to his knowledge," for the past five years.

The couple were married in April, 1924.

No date has been set for the hearing.

SPEER RULING

MOTHER Instinct "BUNK"

ALL UP TO HORMONES

By LEIGH MATTESON
International News Service Science Writer

Pittsburgh, Dec. 28—It is a far cry from Tin Pan Alley to the Carnegie Institution of Washington station for experimental evolution in Cold Springs Harbor, L. I.—but the scientists at the one place have informed the mammy singers at the other place that the maternal instinct they have long sentimentalized is very nearly the bunk.

Politicians who also praise motherliness and the home-making instinct, likewise might pause and ponder the scientific announcement, made today at the winter meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Dr. Oscar Riddle, one of the leading biological experimenters in the world, announced that the maternal instinct is absent or present, mild or intense, in the female sex only because a tiny gland in the bottom of the skull pan functions this way or that way.

This gland is the pituitary, composed of two different kinds of tissue, front and back. The front portion, Dr. Riddle found at the Carnegie experimental station, produces five known hormones that have a vast influence on human behavior and health.

Tests on Chickens

Dr. Riddle discovered one of these hormones, prolactin, three years ago. Since then he has been studying its function. In recent experiments he discovered a function which he announced today.

"The hormone, prolactin," he said, "is the sole cause of the appearance of the maternal instinct in mankind, animals and birds, such as pigeons."

Many of the experiments were conducted on birds and chickens. These were chosen as experimental subjects because the maternal instincts of these creatures is very pronounced.

Dr. Riddle announced that by the injection of prolactin into laying hens he induced the clucking symptoms. In hens then laying eggs he was able to stop the laying, and induce both the clucking and brooding symptoms with one or two small injections of prolactin. The most notable test was made on two roosters. After injections, the roosters began to cluck like hens. Dr. Riddle deduced from this that it would be possible to induce maternal instincts in men with similar injections.

OFFICERS FIGHT LOSS OF COMMISSIONS

Fort Devens, Dec. 28—Captain John P. Goodman and his two aids, Lieutenants Frederick G. Ward and Gordon G. Reilly, all of Boston, are preparing a defense to prevent the regular army from revoking their commissions in the Reserve Officers' Corps.

They were relieved of their duties at New Marlboro where they were heads of the CCC camp, following the deaths of five CCC boys in an overturned truck.

All three of the officers were ordered back to this cantonment by Major-General Fox Conner, preparatory to being relieved of further temporary active duty in the regular army. They are expected to retain counsel to defend their commissions.

Cock-Crowing Test

For the first time in America, a cock-crowing Marathon will be a feature of the Boston Poultry Show, which will be held at Mechanics building the week beginning New Year's Day. The show will also feature an egg-laying contest.

In the crowing Marathon, each time a cock crows an attendant will call the number and the record clerk will tally the score. It is said that frequent crowing indicates a splendid disposition on the part of the bird.

Thirty-six pens of four hens each will compete in the egg laying contest.

ERA WINS

The obstacle placed in the way of the ERA in Bellingham by a refusal of the selectmen to permit the ERA to use the town tools was overcome, State Administrator Arthur G. Rotch said, by borrowing such tools from the Army Base here. Next week 40 men will be put to work.

Penned 'Since Depression' Father's Death Frees Son

By International News Service

Chicago, Dec. 28—Austin Kratzner blinked his eyes today and looked on a world he hadn't seen for many years, perhaps two decades.

Now 26 years old, Kratzner had been a recluse for the better part of his life. Many of his relatives, living only a few blocks away, had not seen him since his first birthday.

To medical examiners in Psychopathic Hospital, where Kratzner was sent for examination, he murmured vaguely that he had not been outside the flat he occupied with his father since "before the depression. There was evidence that he had not been out for nearly 20 years.

It was the death of his father, Henry Kratzner, on Christmas Day, that finally liberated the man from his strange incarceration in the flat, virtually under lock and key. Why the father had kept him a prisoner remained unclear to investigators.

In 1915, court records show, the father filed a complaint that his wife kept the boy locked up at the age of 7 years.

Kratzner, thin and sallow, answered question jerkily and in a high voice.

All contestants will be aiming for the chief prize, the New England championship trophy and the free trip to Detroit

Einstein 'On Women' Dodged

By Associated Press

Pittsburgh, Dec. 28—Prof. Albert Einstein, here to talk at the American Association for the Advancement of Science, was interviewed this morning by 20 selected newspapermen.

The interview was stage-managed by several scientists.

They managed so well that some of the newspapermen who had planned to ask Einstein his opinion of American women, changed their question to what he thought of American colleges.

Einstein said he had seen too little of them to comment. Otherwise, the newspapermen asked questions about space, some of which Einstein said he himself could not understand.

"EXPLAINS" MYSTERY

By Associated Press

San Francisco, Dec. 28—Disappearance of Lieutenant Charles T. P. Ulm and his two companions while flying to Honolulu December 5 remains a mystery, but evidence increasingly supports the theory navigation errors made them overshoot the islands.

Hope of finding Ulm, George Littlejohn and J. K. Skilling alive has faded, but search for wreckage of their plane continues.

The schooner Lurlikai, chartered by Mrs. Ulm, was northwestward beyond French Frigate shoals today, searching each lonely Island of the Hawaiian archipelago as she sailed.

New evidence, supporting a theory Ulm and his men were forced down about on a line between Necker and Johnston Islands in the vicinity of the 20th parallel, comes from radio logs of steamships in the Hawaii area December 8, particularly the liner President Coolidge, the freighter Maliko and the liner President Lincoln.

The logs indicate that while the Ulm plane conversed with the Coolidge from about 1 a. m., Honolulu time, it never acknowledge signals from the Maliko, which reported the plane's radio signals increased in strength through the night until 3:35 a. m., then decreased, rather suddenly, shortly before 6 a. m.

Radio men here interpreted this sudden fading as indicating some land mass intervened between the plane and ship. This might have been the island of Kauai.

Later it was the Kaena Point station, on the western tip of the island, and the liner President Lincoln, which was off Nihau Island, which heard the plane the best. Observers here declare this confirms their theory that Ulm, his view of the islands blocked by ram squalls and his high altitude, passed over them.

PAPERS WILL ACT ON CODE

1200 in Fight

PUBLISHERS SEE THREAT BY NRA ACTION

By Universal Service

New York, Dec. 28—Howard Davis, chairman of the Publishers' National Code Committee, announced last night that a convention of 1200 newspapers will be called immediately to consider the National Labor Relations Board action in the San Francisco Call-Bulletin case.

He declared the representatives of the papers will discuss the Labor Board's action "as it affects their continuance" under the Daily Newspaper Code.

Davis made his announcement after the board at Washington asked the NRA compliance division to remove the Call-Bulletin's Blue Eagle because it failed to obey the board's orders to reinstate Dean S. Jennings, a rewrite man.

Davis, who is also president of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, termed the board's recommendation an attempt to usurp power over the code which is prohibited by provisions giving the newspaper industrial board jurisdiction over all labor disputes.

He said in his statement:

Violation Seen

"The action of the National Labor Relations Board in the San Francisco Call-Bulletin case constitutes, in my opinion, an attempt to usurp power over the code for the daily newspaper publishing business which is specifically prohibited by Articles VI and VII of the newspaper code.

"This attempt was characterized by Donald R. Richberg, former general counsel of the NRA and now director of the President's Emergency Council, in his statement filed with the board on December 7, as a breach of faith by the government.

"It is regarded by the six associations of daily newspaper publishers which co-operated in the preparation and submission of the code as a violation of the code. Representatives of these associations met in New York on December 17 and 18 to consider the issue raised by the National Labor Relations Board. After a thorough discussion, they submitted their views in writing to NRA.

"Under instructions from these associations a convention of the 1200 daily newspapers which have assented to the code will be called immediately to consider the situation as it affects their continuance under the code.

"The issue raised by the National Labor Relations Board has precipitated the gravest problem with which the press of this country has yet been confronted. The nature of that problem is fully set forth in the communication of December 19th to NRA from the six publisher associations as follows:

Facts Are Simple

The National Recovery Administration,
Washington, D. C.
Sirs:

The six associations of daily newspaper publishers, representing more than 1200 newspapers which have assented to the code for the daily newspaper publishing business, are compelled to call to your attention a situation now existing, which, under certain conditions beyond the control of the signatory newspapers, may render the code invalid.

The facts are simple. The newspaper code contains complete, final and exclusive provisions for the adjustment of controversies arising from the application of its provisions.

The National Labor Relations Board has not only asserted a jurisdiction over a controversy which, by both the spirit and letter of a solemn compact between the President and the publishers, was exclusively vested in the Newspaper Industrial Board, but even has asserted a claim to superior jurisdiction.

It has directed a member of one of our associations to comply with its order prior to December 22. Failing this, the case will be referred to the compliance division of the National Recovery Administration and to the enforcement agencies of the federal government for appropriate action.

We respectfully point out to you that the action of the National Labor Relations Board is illegal and void and constitutes an attempt to destroy the agreement between the individual publishers and the President.

Our position is the simple one that the newspapers, at the request of the government, drafted and signed the newspaper code; that this code was a carefully limited agreement between the individual newspapers assenting thereto and the government, being so drawn in order to safeguard the freedom of the press; that the basic clause protecting these safeguards was the agreement by the government not to alter the code save with the consent of each individual newspaper; and that the National Labor Relations Board, by its decision, now directed, is violating the terms of this limitation and thereby seeks to destroy the agreement thus entered into.

Freedom of Press

As you may recall, the newspaper code was the result of a long effort on both sides. Because of the extraordinary powers granted the President under the Recovery Act, including especially the right to license, there were many publishers who from the start felt that the risks were too great to be borne, and that the code system could not safely be applied to a free press.

The progress of newspapers toward freedom of utterance over the centuries had been one long effort to end the system of government license. Whenever in recent years a dictatorial government in Europe had taken control of the press, it has been through the machinery of license.

The publishers' hesitation was understandable. But the desire to co-operate with the recovery plans of the government was strong and the newspaper code was finally drafted, approved by the President, and assented to by all but a few newspapers of the country.

In that process of negotiation, it was repeatedly made clear to the National Recovery Administration that the newspapers could not accept a code that could be modified in any respect after it was agreed to save by the consent of the individual publishers affected thereby.

This clause was fundamental; without it the other safeguards obviously were futile. The President agreed to accept the newspaper code with this clear and precise limitation upon the general right to modify granted by the Recovery Act.

The newspapers of the country signed an agreement containing as its most essential clause this limitation on the right to modify.

Grave Issue

RULING SCORED AS "A BREACH OF FAITH"

Upon this there can be no dispute.

The executive director of the National Emergency Council was, as general counsel of the NRA, at the center of the negotiation and his testimony confirms the view of the newspapers. We quote from his memorandum read before the National Labor Relations board on the rehearing of this case:

Uphold Integrity

"The merits of wisdom of the action of the publishers or the President are not involved in questions presented to the National Labor Relations Board nor are they the appropriate subject of discussion. It is, however, an essential obligation of the government and of any agency of the government to maintain good faith.

"The agreement made and embodied in Article VII should certainly be maintained by any agency of the government in letter spirit and no representative of the government would certainly voluntarily participate in any effort to twist the meaning of Article VII, or to evade its obligations by any legal hair-splitting."

We cannot allow the integrity of the instrument to be violated for any reason great or small.

Even though the issue of the freedom of the press may not be involved in the question of whether an employe of a certain newspaper is dismissed, that is not the issue in this case.

The issue of the freedom of the press is raised rather by the attempt of the National Labor Relations Board to place a construction on article VII of the code contrary to that understood by the parties to the compact, and thus, to effect, to modify the code in violation of the restrictions against modification.

In the present case, a bureaucratic board is endeavoring to arrogate to itself power to modify the code. If conceded, this would undermine the bill of rights as preserved therein. The newspapers cannot safely wait until the process of destruction is started.

The precedent set by this case would, if sustained, destroy at a stroke the essential safeguard of the freedom of the press contained in the newspaper code.

If the newspapers now submitted to it, the threat for the future would be clear. The mischief would be done if the newspapers failed to protest the assumption by the National Labor Relations Board that the code may be modified in derogation of the restriction contained in article VII against the effect of such modification in the absence of consent by the publishers.

Good Faith Cited

The courts might regard such acquiescence as a waiver of the constitutional right itself. And it would lie in the mouth of no newspaper which sat silent today and remained under the code to assert its constitutional rights later in protest.

These associations which, in behalf of their membership, participated in the negotiations leading up to the submission and approval of the code, therefore feel their course to be clear. They cannot permit the future of the press of America to be compromised and endangered.

Both for their own protection and as trustees of a public right, they cannot sit idly by and see their charter of freedom, preserved as in the code, bearing the President's approval, become a scrap of paper.

Therefore, these associations—American Newspaper Publishers Association, New England Daily Newspaper Association, Southern Newspaper Publishers Association, Del-Mar-Va Association, Inland Daily Press Association, and Pacific Northwest Newspaper Association—come to you as the agency set up by the President to administer the National Industrial Recovery Act, with the request that you repeal this usurpation of power on the part of the National Labor Relations Board in order that the good faith of the government may be maintained and the code preserved.

By direction of the abovenamed associations,
Very truly yours,
HOWARD DAVIS,
American Newspaper Publishers Association.

Ban Asked on Eagle

By Universal Service

Washington, Dec. 28—The National Labor Relations Board has sent the San Francisco Call-Bulletin case to the compliance division of NRA.

At the same time it recommended that the compliance division take away the NRA Blue Eagle from the newspaper.

The action was taken yesterday in connection with the controversy between the newspaper and Dean S. Jennings, former rewrite man of the Call-Bulletin, staff.

The labor board in sending the case to the compliance division, held that the newspaper had failed to submit evidence to it on the merits of the case or to notify the board that Jennings, complainant in the case, had been reinstated within the 10 day period set by the board for such action.

Declaring that the Call-Bulletin had failed to avail itself of either of the opportunities afforded it, the labor board's memorandum concluded:

"By reason of these failures and of the violation found, the matter is referred to you with the recommendation of this board that the Blue Eagle be removed."

AND NOW TO YOURSELF!

What a delightful time the days after Christmas are, Anne! When the flurry of gift-buying turns tables and you find that Santa has left you a packet of crisp banknotes, to spend on yourself any way you wish. I have a "gift for myself" all selected—it's the regal-looking velvet evening bag I've sketched for you. It's called the "Coronet" and I found it in Filene's Handbag Shop—it's only $8 in velvet and $10 in lame. The sketch couldn't do this bag justice—you simply must see it to get even the slightest idea of how truly stunning it is. If you're going places New Year's Eve you really should see Filene's selection of evening bags! They're different— distinctive—luxurious—and remember with your Christmas gift money you can buy even the most expensive one without a twinge of conscience. Don't think they're all expensive, though, I saw a tremendously smart metal-cloth bag—fitted with comb, vanity case and lipstick—priced at only $3.50. And see the glamorous, glittering Rhinestone bags at $5. I sketched one for you—isn't it grand? Any one of their bags will delight you and add much charm to your evening ensemble the "big night"—just look at them in Filene's Handbag Shop, street floor.

THE NEW FORD V-8 FOR 1935

INTRODUCED TOMORROW

A New Ford V-8 That Brings New Beauty, New Safety, and a New Kind of Riding Comfort Within Reach of Millions of People

The New Ford V-8 for 1935 is the biggest and roomiest Ford car ever built. It is a strikingly handsome car, with modern lines and new, luxurious appointments.

But most important of all it is especially designed to give you smooth, easy riding over all kinds of roads—"a front-seat ride for back-seat riders."

COMFORT TO MATCH MODERN PERFORMANCE OF V-8 ENGINE

This ease of riding is achieved by the use of three basic principles never before combined in a low-price car.

1. Correct distribution of car weight by moving engine and body forward eight and a half inches.

2. New location of seats by which the rear seat is moved forward, toward the center of the car—away from the rear axle and away from the bumps.

3. New spring suspension which permits the use of longer, more flexible springs and increases the springbase to 123 inches.

The result is Center-Poise—which not only gives you a new riding comfort but adds to the stability of the car and its ease of handling. You can take curves with greater safety.

There are many new features in the Ford V-8 for 1935 which make the car still easier to drive.

NEW BRAKES—NEW CLUTCH—EASIER STEERING

New brakes give more power for stopping quickly with far less foot pressure on the pedal. A new type of easy-pressure clutch employs centrifugal force to increase efficiency at higher speeds. New steering mechanism makes the car still easier to handle.

The New Ford V-8 for 1935 retains the V-8 engine which has demonstrated its dependability and economy in the service of more than a million owners. There are refinements—including crankcase ventilation, cast alloy steel crankshaft and copper-lead floating connecting-rod bearings—but no change in basic design. You buy premium performance when you buy this Ford V-8—full 85 horsepower and capable of 80 miles an hour.

Other 1935 Ford features are Safety Glass throughout in all body types at no extra cost. New welded all-steel bodies. New wider rear doors. (Front doors hinged forward.) New lower double-channel X-type frame. (Makes it easier to get in and out of the car.)

WIDER AND ROOMIER BODIES—LUXURIOUS APPOINTMENTS

Rich, modern body colors, including a new gun-metal finish of striking beauty on De Luxe body types. Luxurious new upholstery and appointments. New, wider pillowed seats and softer seat cushions. (Front seats are 4 to 5½ inches wider.) Clear-Vision Ventilation, with adjustable cowl ventilator and a windshield that opens. Combination fuel and oil gage and heat indicator on instrument board of De Luxe cars.

The spring leaves are tapered for quiet as well as flexibility. Larger tires have a new, wider tread, specially designed for safety and comfort. Bodies are insulated for quiet and temperature.

We invite you to see this New Ford V-8 at the showrooms of Ford dealers. You will want to ride in it—to drive it yourself. You will find it a new experience in motoring.

FORD V-8 PRICES ARE LOW

12 BODY TYPES—Coupe (5 windows), $495; Tudor Sedan, $510; Fordor Sedan, $575. DE LUXE—Roadster (with rumble seat), $550; Coupe (3 windows), $570; Coupe (5 windows), $560; Phaeton, $580; Tudor Sedan, $575; Cabriolet (with rumble seat), $625; Fordor Sedan, $635; TOURING SEDANS, with built-in trunk—Tudor Touring Sedan, $595; Fordor Touring Sedan, $655.

(F. O. B. Detroit. Standard accessory group including bumpers and spare tire extra. All body types have Safety Glass throughout, at no additional cost. Small down payment. Convenient, economical terms through the Universal Credit Company.)

HOLLAND

Osgood Perkins Gave The Message

By GEORGE HOLLAND

Two fine old ladies of the Back Bay have been added, by inadvertence, to the list fast-growing of those who would like to lift this scalp.

Osgood Perkins, whose grand performance in "Point Valaine" at the Colonial makes anything about him, even the dislikes of his relatives, interesting current jottings for this column, told me the news.

George Holland

In this space a week or so ago appeared a mention that Mr. Perkins, who is a native of West Newton, was devoted to two maiden aunts living in the Back Bay section. To be read it, the following stern message was given him by delivery:

"Tell the young man, nephew," Mr. Perkins was ordered, "that there are no spinsters in this family."

This proves that the message was delivered, with the hope that it will be considered a peace-offering.

* * *

In "Point Valaine," Mr. Perkins plays the lucid novelist who has no time for "legends" and no patience with the past. (Author Noel Coward must have been moved to this point of view after sitting through some "revivals in the theater.) It is welcome to have Mr. Perkins with us in a part which proves he is capable of sanity, nay, lucidity on the stage. He preceded through "The Front Page" like a windjammer in a gale, he appeared slightly unbalanced in "The Wiser They Are," and somewhat hyperbolic in "Goodbye Again."

Going further into his history, he was the hypochondriac Homer in George Kaufman and Marc Connelly's fantasy, "The Beggar on Horseback." Knowing Mr. Perkins quite well, one would be put to it to discover any hypochondriac tendencies in his making, although he is an inveterate lozenge-eater.

* * *

Jed Harris, who cast Mr. Perkins in "The Front Page," took pity on Osgood after that success and gave him a full-time role in "Uncle Vanya," a paradoxical situation at that, as most of Chekhov's characters are not exactly famous for their common sense.

After Philip Barry made him a big hit in "Tomorrow and Tomorrow," in a butler's part that called for neither eye-brow raising or hedopping, the West Newton boy, who made good in New York as well as Hollywood, began thinking that perhaps he had achieved finally the sobriety he had long desired in his parts.

"The Wiser They Are" and "Goodbye Again" brought him back to his senses, or out of his senses from the standpoint of roles. But it was in the Theater Guild's production of Moliere's "School for Husbands" that Mr. Perkins made his most spectacular debut. As a ballet dancer. Debut and terminus, he is sure.

* * *

Gilbert Miller and Arthur Hopkins, associated in the production of Leslie Howard in "The Petrified Forest," seem to be working in shifts at their smashing success currently tenanting the Shubert. Mr. Miller saw "Point Valaine" at yesterday's matinee, Mr. Hopkins remaining at the theater to make one picture that looks good and her whole career suddenly changes. Virginia was so lovely as Anne Lind in "The Mighty Barnum" that MGM immediately put her to work. She has had three pictures within eight weeks and now she is to play the lead in "Times Square Lady," by Albert Cohen and Robert T. Shannon.

Irene Dunne Sings Again
Stars in "Show Boat"
UNIVERSAL REVIVAL

CHARLES WINNINGER ALSO TO PLAY CAPTAIN ANDY ROLE IN FILM

By Louella O. Parsons

Motion Picture Editor Universal Service

Copyright, 1934, by Universal Service

Los Angeles, Dec. 28—Irene Dunne should be able to sing Jerome Kern's music in her sleep. She sang his songs in "Sweet Adeline" she is singing them in "Roberta" and she will sing them in "Show Boat." You see, Irene has been borrowed by Universal for a revival of "Show Boat" and so was Charles Winninger, who created the role of Captain Andy in the Ziegfeld stage play and on the radio.

"Show Boat" will be practically a new venture for Universal. The first movie was bad because it happened along just at the birth of the talkies and an effort was made to incorporate the songs without success. But when Irene warbles the melodies that she sang on the stage in a revival of "Show Boat" in 1929, everything's going to be all right.

Louella O. Parsons

The big bull Louella O. Parsons up is for Alice Faye, Fox's blonde star. Alice got her first job in "George White's Scandals" on the stage and with Fox on the strength of being Rudy Vallee's girl friend. But now that she has proved that she doesn't need Rudy to get along in the movies, she is getting plenty of attention on her own. She will have the principal feminine role in "The Song and Dance Man," George M. Cohan's play, and Jimmy Durante will probably be the polite her. That is, if Shirley Temple will permit Jimmie to have another screen girl friend.

George Brent has returned from a brief week's holiday in the desert. He will have to be triplets to play in all the pictures now offered him. All feminine players that Warner Brothers plan for him. Now it's Jean Muir who is to be his vis-a-vis in "Haircut," the Ring Lardner story. But he won't be Jean's partner in Romeo until he and Kay Francis give the world "The Goose and the Gander" and Jean finishes "A Midsummer Night's Dream." Kay and George, to my way of thinking, are a team of the fast will spend their money to see.

Chatter in Hollywood

The chief topic of conversation these days is the $25,000 emerald and diamond brooch presented to Tallulah Bankhead on Christmas by her multi-millionaire admirer. The gentle critic Playboy has fallen for Tallulah so hard that he is talking about marriage—and hinting that he may before soon. Meanwhile, the gay and vivacious Tallulah is making arrangements to appear in a revival of "Dishy," the play which brought the late Jeanne Eagels into fame and fortune.

'Fly Away Home' Is Merry
Comedy at Plymouth
Mitchell in Leading Role

CLEVER YOUNGSTERS STEAL SHARE OF HONORS ON STAGE

To a younger generation that knows its Freuds, its phobias and its way around Provincetown, "Fly Away Home," which opened at the Plymouth last evening with Thomas Mitchell in the leading role, turns for one of the merriest comedies of the season.

Dorothy Bennett and Irving White have brought the perfect light touch to the story of the Masters family, a group of emancipated youngsters—happy children of divorce, with a Hollywood mother and a traveling engineer father, a summer home on the tip of the Cape and a more complete set of advanced ideas on life and love than even a Van Vechten might have authored. Floyd Dell is positively old-fashioned in his concept of what our children are up to, compared to this story of the four adolescent Masters, who plot their amours, discuss the biological facts of life, and announce in a resounding and happy chorus that they need neither father nor mother to guide them.

Thomas Mitchell, as the distracted father, hasn't so far as I can recall come to grips with the vagaries of finance rather than family for 12 years, arrives in the bright sunshine of a Provincetown noonday to find his four children not only total strangers, but positively hostile to anything that smacks remotely of the conventions.

Linda, the eldest, is plotting to spend the week-end, or at least one exciting night with a really nice young man in Boston (of all places!). The son and heir has become involved with a pretty little Portuguese girl, who delivers eggs and wants an electric refrigerator to set up a poultry farm with the jealous man, who is so far behind the times and so lacking in intelligence that he wants to marry the girl.

In the meantime, the Hollywood mother is planning to marry an earnest young professor—of psychology, of course—who has instilled in his step-children-to-be the free and untrammelled ideas of the aborigines.

Ann Mason is charming and properly self-centered as the rather indifferent mother, and Albert Van Dekker makes the most of Professor Sloan, who's strong on theory, but short on cash. But it's the children upon whom the play and the acting depend. They come through gloriously, and what life there is in the extenuated story is due to the presence of Joan Tompkins, Georgette McKee, Montgomery Clift, Edwin Phillips, Lili Zehner and Phillip Ravenscroft, as the most engaging and natural crowd of youngsters that could be found in a dozen shows. They're both the sugar and the spice in "Fly Away Home," which still lacks the substance for much of any such seasoning.

Gala Holiday Bills at Midnight Shows

New Features

NEW FILMS WILL BE SHOWN

Midnight shows will usher in the New Year in many of Boston's theaters,

At both the Keith Memorial and RKO theaters, a special single showing of "Tomorrow in Manhattan," with Ginger Rogers and Walter Connolly, will be presented at each of the big Keith houses at the midnight performances.

At Loew's State, Boston, and Loew's Orpheum, with the stage show starring Joan Crawford, Clark Gable and Robert Montgomery heading the cast, will be given a midnight performance, with New Year's celebrations marking the holiday program. At Loew's Orpheum, "Evelyn Prentice," starring Myrna Loy and William Powell with Una Merkel in support, with Jack Benny and his Gillette Show" topping the vaudeville program.

The double feature first program at both the Fenway and Fenway theatres for the night before the holiday evening are "Bordertown," with Paul Muni and Bette Davis, and "Bachelor of Arts," featuring Tom Brown and Anita Louise.

At the Scollay square theatre vaudeville program starring Al Norman, the Vollaires, Naomi Ray and Eddie Hurtig, shares the New Year's Eve spotlight with Shirley Temple's newest starring picture, "Bright Eyes," with James Dunn, Lois Wilson and Judith Allen featured in the cast.

At the Bowdoin Square, the midnight show will offer 10 acts of RKO vaudeville.

Meet Hollywood's greatest Romeo!

In today's "About Faces" drawing you Boston Evening American readers will be entertained by Hollywood's greatest "heart-quickener" as he appears in the leading role of "Here Is My Heart." Opposite him appears a charming miss whose name you should recognize, very easily. The remaining two drawings are those of two leading screen, radio, and stage personalities. They are appearing in person, this week at the Metropolitan theater in addition to Fabien Sevitzky and the Grand Orchestra's offer "Pastoral Symphony," a spectacle overture featuring a company of 50.

With these clues you should have practically no difficulty in sketching in the weekly face in each award, as offered by the Boston Evening American to those who know their favorite actors and actresses as they are portrayed, days in the fascinating "About Faces" series by Art Moger.

Beneath each drawing is a block of squares which equals the number of letters in the names of these celebrities. Use the letter R as a clue and your solutions should be forthcoming.

Winners of last week's cash awards will be announced tomorrow. Get your copy of the Boston Evening American, EARLY. Win an "About Faces" award. It is distinctive!

America's complacency towards the peril of Communism will be jolted by a series of six articles written for the Boston Evening American by one of the nation's foremost educators.

Music as Moral Force 'Just Bunk'

By Associated Press

Milwaukee, Dec. 28—A. Walter Kramer, editor of Musical America, says he believes the idea that music is a great force for elevating human nature is "just bunk." Kramer is attending a musical convention of five musical organizations.

"It's time," he said, "that we were debunking the idea that music makes people better human beings. Except for the greatest composers of all time, music I says people just as wicked as the day they were born, and that's really wicked."

Slur On Duchess Ires Kent

By International News Service

Paris, Dec. 28—Prince George of England has refused a Greek decoration offered him in honor of his marriage, because the Greek government slighted Princess Marina, according to the weekly magazine "Cyrano."

Before leaving France to meet her royal bridegroom in England, Princess Marina went to Nicolas Politis, Greek minister to France, and asked for a Greek passport, states the magazine.

"As a Greek, I do not wish to go to London on a foreign passport. Please have the kindness to give me a Greek passport. This is of no great importance to you as, soon, married to Prince George, I shall be British," she is reported to have stated.

Politis requested permission of his Ministry for Foreign Affairs and was refused, according to the magazine.

So the Duchess of Kent traveled to England on a Danish passport—and the Duke of Kent returned the Greek decoration.

HOW B. U. TREATS THEIR FROSTBITES

The student health service at Boston University offers the following advice to prevent and alleviate frostbite.

In very cold weather don't expose yourself more than is absolutely necessary.

If you should suddenly feel a sharp sting in your ears, nose, chin, or any other part of the body, immediately take snow or cold material and apply it to the affected part. Under no circumstances apply hot water or heat. Later, keep the frostbitten part covered with oil or a greasy salve.

In severe cases, see a doctor or rush to the emergency ward of the nearest hospital.

Frostbite is a burn, and if not taken care of, may result in gangrene and loss of the affected part.

Dr. Hart to Rest

This Is Life

By ROGERS

I have just been reading a book which I wish could be put into the hands of all the dear good people in this country who see Russia and China and Japan (especially Japan) as if each were their own face in the mirror.

The book is called "Riding the Tiger" (Houghton Mifflin Co. and it is written by a keen journalist, Harry Carr, whose foreign correspondence, on which the book is based, received honorable mention from the Pulitzer Prize committee.

The book is journalism, written on the spot in Japan, Manchukuo and China full of the most interesting data, information, and what not, but it is also a human story, written with real sense of humor and understanding. He tells how he found it easy to make friends and to meet people of all sorts and conditions. He tells how he found people difficult to meet, even more difficult to get to know, and impossible to understand. He tells how he and his wife, by patience and tact, finally succeeded in making friends with a few Japanese and Chinese families, and how they have been able to penetrate modern people.

Robert E. Rogers

I believe sincerely that the difficulty with most of our good people who are so certain that we shall never get on comfortably with the East, or Russia or even Europe, for that matter, is that we apply to them the yardstick of our own standards and customs and they have no opportunity to realize the practical, everyday, down to earth cultural psychology of any different form of life.

Law of Humanity

Our American tourist goodwill and hasty fuss out of which come the blind prejudices, seems to them the joy of humanity all over the world. Mr. Harry Carr would call them as he tells of Japanese and Chinese, the same springs of action and kind ideas and necessities and pardonable pride those and restraints that we over here hardly dream of.

Says Mr. Carr in effect, we over here have no real sense of inferiority and consequently we cannot possibly measure how strong that sense is in the Japanese. On the other hand the Chinese or Korean sense of contemptuous superiority is not ours either.

We are not big children with spanking legions for the Nth power as are the Japanese. We are not hysterical, back to be frightened and beating, like a bunch of peas in a pod and so stampeded into hostile action without warning. Military leaders do not arise from civilians into senate chambers.

And we have no cult of the Emperor, Son of Heaven, for whose dignity and welfare we are willing to sacrifice our present and future as well as our unborn seed selves. Mr. Carr thinks that these things make a difference. I am inclined to believe him.

A Momentary One

He believes that if Japan should by some miracle get military control of China she would for some centuries at least be very bothersome and irritating. Japan might even rule in Peking. But in course of time China would close over them and there would be no Japan-China empire.

It is just as well that four hundred millions of them are not educated and cannot co-operate. Otherwise they would rule the world. The Japanese adventure is a momentary one, as time goes in the East, yet for the moment infinitely threatening.

It is really a pity that the Methodists and the Baptists have not succeeded in making the Orient over according to the ideas of our Middle Western democratic Protestants. Then there might be no eastern question. Then the world would be just one big, loving, happy family!

'Kiss Tell' Must Quit or Be Ousted

Edward J. McMahon, "kiss and tell policeman" at the trial of Mrs. Jessie Costello, must resign as a reserve member of the Peabody police department or be removed, Mayor J. Leo Sullivan of Peabody announced today.

The announcement followed the flat refusal of McMahon to meet with the suggestion that he resign so that Mayor Sullivan could fill his place.

McMahon hasn't worked at a reserve job since February, 1933 the time he testified against Costello with Mr. Costello. Later he testified to the same story in the trial of Edward Dolan, Costello's co-defendant. Dolan was found guilty of killing Joseph Mooney and Lee Clayton William J. Costello, Mrs. Sullivan said, will not be permitted to remain on the force unless he resigns.

2000 TROOPS GUARD SOVIET TRIAL

By Associated Press

Moscow, Dec. 28—A Warsaw dispatch to the Daily Express said today 2,000 soldiers are guarding the military court in Leningrad where 14 alleged terrorists are on trial for the murder of Sergei M. Kirov, Communist boss of Leningrad.

The dispatch, including Leonid Nicolaieff, confessed assassin of Kirov, were on trial in secret and would be executed.

Nicolaieff, the Express said, shouted defiance when the trial opened, asserting "I freed Russia from a lowdown scoundrel. Others will follow me and finish my work."

SNOW TRAIN Outings Start

The popular "Snow Train" for skiers will be run by the Boston & Maine Railroad this winter, it was announced today. The first of Sunday outings will be scheduled for the New Year's week-end.

There will be two trains each New Year week-end. One will leave North Station for Intervale, bound for Lisbon, N. H., and the other at 7:30 for Mount Washington, North Conway and Intervale.

Guy Lauds Work of Banks Here

Although they are not pressing for payment, Massachusetts banks are carrying $45,000,000 in arrears on real estate loans on their books, Arthur Guy, retiring banking commissioner, said.

At a banquet given in his honor by the Massachusetts Co-operative Bank League, he said:

"Bankers have been called plenty of names, and I think the public should know what they have done during the past four years. It is time the banks stopped taking it on the chin.

"The co-operative banks in Massachusetts are the best in the country. There were fewer banks closed in Massachusetts during the bank holiday than in any other part of the country."

ADMIRAL OUT

Until February when he goes off the active list, Rear Admiral Henry H. Hough commands of the United States naval district at Charlestown navy yard will remain at a hotel in Boston he said.

In the meantime in command of the Charlestown yard will be the present commander of the Destroyer Squadron, Rear Admiral Vandeihi's appointment to the Charlestown yard will be his last before retirement.

World War Secret in Doll Found 20 Years Late

A German secret method of transmitting information during the World War was believed discovered in a blue-eyed German doll—just 20 years too late.

Mrs. Louise Welch bought the doll in 1914 for her daughter L[illegible] then two years old.

Today L[illegible] 22 found it in a bureau drawer, as birds do, that when she pressed it up to at the head fell off and a pair of mother-of-pearl glasses.

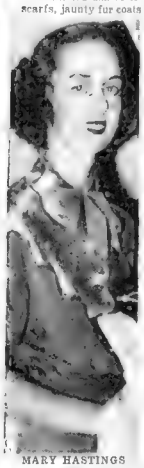
Fashionables Greet Debutantes At Ritz-Carlton Luncheon

By Betty Alden

TWO A CASUAL OBSERVER in the lobby of the Ritz-Carlton yesterday afternoon, the groups of sparkling-eyed and rosy-cheeked debutantes frisking through the revolving doors into the pleasant warmth of the hotel, looked more as if they were bound for New Year's in Quebec than to a presentation luncheon for two of their sister buds . . .

Muffled almost to the tops of their curly heads in vivid scarfs, jaunty fur coats and 100 per cent be-mittened, it merely required a second to doff these protections from the blustery day to reveal one of the prettiest and best-dressed groups of femininity we have encountered for some time . . . A brilliant panorama of beauty and color was presented by the vivid blues and reds, with the inevitable gold and silver metal cloth tunics, supreme favorites of the well-dressed woman at the moment . . . The soft blue rug of the French room, bowers of beautiful blooms all around and the colorful paintings hung on the walls added to the feeling of warmth and loveliness.



MARY HASTINGS

In Receiving Line

MRS. AUSTIN KIBBEE and Mrs. William Camp stood in the receiving line with the hostesses, Ruth Kibbee and Maud Jacobs, the latter, Mrs. Camp's niece . . . Rust-colored crepe made on simple lines with bell sleeves and ankle length skirt, graced the tall willowy figure of Miss Kibbee, and Miss Jacob's gown of Yale blue was trimmed with a gold-lined cowl . . . From all the flowers they received, Miss Kibbee chose a shoulder corsage of gardenias and Miss Jacobs carried a bouquet of token roses . . .

About 75 guests greeted the newcomers to the debutante ranks . . . Charming and individual is Miss Kibbee, a natural blonde . . . She returns to her studies at Mills College in California soon after the New Year . . . A contrasting type, dark and a little more stocky, is Miss Jacobs who is spending her first year out at Smith College.

Checked and double-checked were Helen Hadley and Barbara Flint . . . the former a diminutive blonde who stepped into the social whirl today with Nancy Cox . . . her checks were green and black and her hat a jaunty green felt . . . Turquoise blue combined with brown to fashion the stunning ensemble of Emily Sweetser, a jolly athletic type who has been at Bennington all fall and a newcomer to the ranks of the season's buds . . . That favorite of the debs, a tunic dress of crepe threaded with metal was chosen by blonde and lovely Frances Shea . . . who introduced us to jaunty and bright Kathleen Keville, wearing a royal blue crepe dress, shirred at the neckline . . . There has been so much confusion about Kathleen's name that she hopes the press will remember in the future that it is not Katherine . . .

• • •

Eleanor Swift Like a Russian Princess

ARRIVING ALMOST SIMULTANEOUSLY were Eleanor Swift and Mary Hastings . . . Eleanor, a wistfully beautiful girl, reminiscent of pictures of Russian princesses in her toque of Persian lamb, matching her coat . . .

A buzz of conversation arose from one group which included Sally Blackman in turquoise, Janet Marston, Dorothy Hastings in wine red, and Anne Meserve . . . Kathleen Maynard, wearing a black crepe afternoon frock with gold touches at the neckline, and Ricka Plympton, whose woolen dress was crimson colored and decorated with a perky leopard bow under her chin, vied for best dressed honors . . . Helen Foster chatted with the out-of-town guests, namely Patricia Pierce, who wore a silver tunic and a black turban gayly bedecked with a crimson bow, Cornelia Beck of Bridgeport, in black crepe, Arlette Phillipous of New York in violet blue with silver and Katherine Coursen of Madison, N. J., in holly red . . .

Two other important guests were Mrs. Abbott Peterson of Hingham and Mrs. E. O. Field of Weston, Miss Jacobs' cousin and sister respectively . . . Jane McCleod was also in the merry company . . .

In contrast to their decided leaning toward the pleasures which cause a flutter in the hearts of most young people, the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Seth Gano have intellectual gifts which they are endeavoring to express . . . the oldest daughter, Barbara, who is spending the holidays with her family, will return early in January to her studies in international law at the London School of Economics . . . Already she has acquired such an English accent that sister Priscilla has difficulty in claiming relationship to her when they attend parties together . . .

Helen Porter Off for Reunion

MISS PRISCILLA, one of the bevy of debs at the luncheon yesterday, is teaching a class of nursery school children as part of the practical training in her course at a nursery training school . . . She is a pensive, thoughtful girl with all the loveliness of feminine charm and laudable aspirations to do something worth while in life . . .

Helen Porter

Passengers on one of the crack flyers to New York today had a bubbling little wisp of a girl as a fellow traveller . . . Helen Porter, that sprightly deb from Brookline, is going over to spend the New Year weekend in Gotham with former school mates at Dana Hall . . . She will be the house guest of Miss Jerry Weed . . . It is quite appropriate that she should choose St. Valentine's Day for her debut dance at the Somerset for she will be often asked to be a gallant admirer's valentine . . .

Mary Benton, the dark eyed daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Benton of Belmont has invited Priscilla Gano to be one of the pourers at her tea dance on January 5 . . . On the following day, Mr. Charles Alexander will toast the new bud at a small cocktail party in his city apartment . . .

Ends Quarrel Over Baby

Wife in Custody

Walter Promises Helen to Break Relations

by BEATRICE LUBITZ

CHAPTER XXXVI

After dinner they walked on the boardwalk arm in arm. A mist hung over the moon and etherialized the crowds so that they seemed to be floating along the boardwalk. The ocean was a lost black velvet always stirred as a dish of water. Even the ripples were subdued as if the sea were holding its breath and waiting with deep patience for the night to fulfill its promise.

"You understand me, don't you, dear? I want us to live our own lives as we see fit. I want my baby to be my baby. I want to bring it up as you and I know to be right. If we must make [illegible] life. It's our baby. I want freedom, Walt. I want [illegible] I want us to come and go and do as we please. I don't want [illegible] I am stopping you from listening to them, but if you love me you will not be influenced by them and guided by them. You and I and no one else on God's earth shall make the decisions that guide us. Do you understand, Walt?"

Yes—Eve. It was clear but bitter cold and Helen found that [illegible] three weeks in the South, for [illegible] Walter had [illegible]

"I'm not. You can [illegible] your head off but not about my wife. And not to me. See?" He turned on his heel and walked off.

Irene stood after him in amazement. "My Lord," she exclaimed proudly, "he's gone off his head!"

"What do you mean? No as a matter of fact, she went down [illegible] with the nurse and baby. The girl had a cold. Walter went down a week later."

"Ah," Bertha cried triumphantly "that's different. That makes it [illegible]"

"Why, what do you mean, Bertha?"

"Don't get excited, Agnes."

"I never get excited. Tell me [illegible] Agnes pouted.

Agnes, we saw Helen down there with another man," she said slowly.

"I don't believe it! Besides it may have been just a casual acquaintance."

"No!" Agnes paled.

"Yes. And do you know who the man was—Agnes?"

"No, who was it?" she gasped

"Agnes, it was Dirk Terhune—Irene's husband."

"ENOUGH SCANDAL"

"Oh, my lord!"

"Agnes, take some water, quick. Oh, my dear, you mustn't let yourself go like that."

Agnes' lips moved swiftly in silent prayer.

"Tell me all about it from beginning to end, Bertha," she gasped.

"Listen, Bertha, swear to me on the memory of your dead mother that you'll never breathe a word of this to a soul, unless I say you may. Swear!"

"I swear to heaven," Bertha quavered, frightened by the gleam in Agnes' eye.

Austen Lake on College Grid Leopard Keeps Same Old Spots

New York Dec 28.

HOWARD J. SAVAGE, THE CARNEGIE Foundation's sport's sleuth, whose snooping duties in college athletics are comparable to our own Watch and Ward Society, or a hotel house dick, notes a backsliding tendency in varsity football.

He says right out loud before the Sportsmanship Brotherhood, that many of the colleges have wavered in their course toward clean sport and that others are increasing their shady practices.

I would not call upon anybody for confessions but I do think that Professor Savage might let his hair down a little further and give whatever historical data he has collected on the subject. I mean he should name names and cite cases, instead of whimpering and wringing his hands.

Now, then, Professor Savage remarks that the "frankness with which sports reporters and commentators write about recruiting and subsidizing of college athletics is a healthy sign," and that "no weapon is so effectual against such abuses as publicity."

Yet Professor Savage is paid by the Carnegie Foundation to sniff out cellar odors in college football, and act as a sort of moral guardian at a handsome salary too, while the newsmen are paid only to keep their public from getting bored.

Austen Lake

An Old Sinner Discusses Sin

IF COLLEGE FOOTBALL IS GOING BACK to the mischievous era when it was considered smart to hire slightly sheepworn athletes for the Dads' Day game against West Whiffletree University the public when pays the freight should be informed about it. Because the public is not pernickety about the breed of college mercenaries and merely wants to know where to find a good show for its money.

I myself have no snobbishness toward a burly lad with cupcake muscles, who sells his athletic talent to a college in return for educational favors, heat, light and rations, because I am frank to admit that I did just that myself in a younger day.

It was commonly done then, as it is now, when boilermakers, wheelwrights and other grades of greasy mechanics were impressed into college service and suffered no harm except that some of them were spoiled for their trade and were mentally incapable of succeeding in their elevated social plane.

* * *

Let Him Without Fault Cast First Cobble

I DO THINK, IN THE LIGHT of my latter day illumination, that those colleges which do fish for schoolboy bullies are guilty of a form of hypocrisy. The Naval Academy not long ago provoked a row in charging that West Point was herding in young men with dandy football records in other colleges, supporting them for four years and then, on graduating at public cost allowing them to resign from their military oaths on some foolish pretext.

I don't think there is a single college which in the barbarian day was not tarred with the same brush, under the excuse that the boys were brought in from hither and yon to enjoy increased opportunities of culture.

The trouble is that college football began, like village baseball, as social groups which played for pleasure. But the profits gradually altered the game from a frolic, amid the happy shouts of healthy lads, to a serious commercial business in million-dollar bowls and stadia under supervision of high-salaried specialists.

* * *

Prosperity Is Such a Temptation

THE FOOTBALL INDUSTRY has become so big and prosperous that the colleges long ago ceased to support it from their academic budgets. And the cost of providing expensive harness, [illegible] trousers, camel-hair jerseys, kangaroo shoes, and the rest of the specialized gear must be paid for.

Consider the mental pressure of the athletic executives and coaches, whose jobs depend on the clicking of their cash gates and the steady drip of currency into the A. A. tills. No victories, no income, no jobs.

Soooooooo . . . presently a college whose sports and finance are stagnated, fires and hires, and presently a crop of burly human steers and ape men begin to drift mysteriously into the ivy-mantled halls and settle down to grinding out victories. The coach, with a growing family and his job at stake, suffers from no scruples and the college fathers sagely ask no questions.

Thus the fathers are in a position to elevate a surprised eyebrow when Professor Savage or some contemporary snooper, yells outrage and points a lean, ice-pick finger at their virtue.

"Bless my soul and body," say the fathers. "This is a surprise." And it is!

* * *

But Do They Want to Reform?

NOW WHEN EDDIE CASEY, after being divorced from his Harvard job lately, said college football could not be conducted successfully without subsidization, he was speaking a heartful.

Because what chance has a run-of the mill collection of kaffee klatch tea cozy athletes against a hired army of shaggy yokels, hand-picked for their derby-hat muscles and tubular-steel bones.

There are several solutions: 1—Do likewise and lasso your own material. 2—Schedule games with college of your own standard of purity and freeze out the sinners.

But I doubt that any permanent change in the system will be effected by a paid reformer like Professor Savage. It must come, like the dawning of a great spiritual light, from within. And I don't think that many of the malefactors want to reform. They are complacent in their sinning, if indeed it is such.

Because, as I say, no victories, no profit, no publicity, fewer students, less alumni endowments. Purity might mean the tearing out of the big sport plants, skimping on health programs through diminished equipment and letting athletic competition go back to the weeds and jungles growth from whence it came.

I suspect, with all their protests of fidelity, the colleges, deep down in their hearts, prefer the barbarian age of football. Of the two evils, prosperity is always the more attractive.

'I'll Be in There,' Peter Pan Insists

By Jack Conway

"They will have a h— of a job to keep me off second base."

"Rabbit" Maranville, back in [illegible] with Judge Fuchs and Governor-elect Curley, made this dramatic announcement at the Fathers and Sons Night dinner of the Temple Ohabei Shalom Brotherhood, Beacon street, Brookline.

The Peter Pan of baseball received a wonderful ovation. "But I am going to play," insisted Maranville. "I don't intend to permit a broken leg to end my career as an active player. And I am going to help win ball games for the Braves."

Hank Greenberg proved a hit.

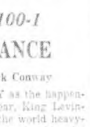
SCHOOLBOYS CUT UP AT ARENA

MR. BOSTON KING HAS A 100-1 CHANCE

By Jack Conway

UNLIKELY as the happening may appear, King Levinsky can win the world heavyweight championship by knocking out Max Baer in their four-round no-decision bout at the Chicago Stadium tonight.

The odds are about 100 to 1 against Levinsky landing a haymaker on Baer's chin.



Baer and Levinsky have already battled for 30 rounds, 20 at Reno and 10 at Chicago. There was not a single knockdown.

Baer and Levinsky will wear 8 1/2 ounce gloves tonight. The regulation gloves such as are used in championship bouts are five ounces.

Mr. Boston

Heavyweight boxers use 16 ounce gloves while training. I have seen Jack Dempsey and Jack Sharkey belt over many a sparring partner while their duties have been confined to 16 ounce gloves.

Wearing six ounce gloves Baer and Levinsky each have a chance to score a knockout.

Both heavyweights throw crazy right hand punches. Baer licked Carnera in the first round with a looping right hand punch. The bout didn't end until the 11th round but it was that terrific punch in the opening session which did the trick for Max.

KING'S WALLOP

LEVINSKY HAS had Jack Sharkey and Tommy Loughran on the floor. He missed each of them with his first right hand but nailed them with his second as they pulled away.

"The Kingfish is a daffy right hand puncher," Warren Brown, sports editor of the Chicago Examiner, told me. "It is his second wallop, rather than his first, which is dangerous.

"He misses with his first punch and his rival steps back. The Kingfish then lets fly with another right and it usually hits its mark.

MICKEY BISHOP

Incidentally, it was Levinsky who ruined the Dempsey comeback. The old Tiger stepped into Chicago to battle the Kingfish in a four-round no-decision go. He considered the match a soft touch.

The men wore big gloves, but despite this handicap Levinsky handed the former champion a shellacking and caused him to give up ideas of returning to the ring wars.

Levinsky is one of the most colorful characters in the ring. He is managed by his sister, Mrs. Lena Levy.

Lena has at times relied upon the judgment of Sammy Goldman and other veteran managers, but she has decided she is a better manager than any of her former aides.

Levinsky operates a fish market in Chicago as a side line, and does a fair business. He didn't do so well when he married a carefree fan dancer. Their marriage is now being aired in a divorce court.

Anyhow Lena never approved of the Kingfish getting married. She felt he should restrict his efforts to fighting and selling herrings. Every man for what he can do best.

GREEK A STAR

RAY CASS expects a rugged battle when John Henry Lewis meets Don Petrin in the ten-round feature at the Arena on New Year's afternoon. Lewis is one of the best punchers in the light heavyweight group, while Petrin has beaten some first class opposition.

Cass, however, says there will also be a terrid scrap when the Greek Terror, Fanis Tzanatopolous, opposes Mickey Bishop in another ten-round go.

These boxers recently clashed at Lynn, and furnished a torrid session. They continued battling after the bell sounded for the end of the tenth round.

Bishop has enough ability to compel the Greek Terror to extend himself to the limit.

Now that a real boxing revival is underway in this city, I look for a good turn out of fans for the Arena show.

* * *

Jimmy Johnston and Joe Jacobs have ended their boxing feud of long standing. They are now parading around Broadway arm in arm. If anything goes wrong with the proposed Max Schmeling-Steve Hamas bout at Hamburg, Germany, the tussle probably will end up under the banner of the New York Garden.

Waltham vs. Needham.

By Bill Connell

A four-way program of school hockey is unfurled in the Arena this evening. Quincy and Wellesley sixes clash in the opening game at seven o'clock and for nearly four hours the Bay State League teams stage their colorful ice whirl.

Two of the most powerful teams in the circuit meet in the second game, when Boston College high plays Framingham.

Both showed much ability in the opening games last Saturday, though Framingham seemed to have a bit more balance than the intown team.

B. C. high has a major asset in its captain and [illegible] Tom Andrews. His work is consistently good, and makes the team defensively a top flight title contender.

The third game pairs Walpole and Watertown, while Waltham battles Needham in the windup.

The Greater Boston leaguers have their fourth program of the season tomorrow at the Arena, starting at 1 p. m. Cambridge Latin vs. Arlington, Belmont vs. Melrose, Newton vs. Stoneham and Rindge Tech vs. Medford are the games.

The first and final games are the closest of the lot. Cambridge Latin, tied with Melrose for the league lead, has a stiff assignment but probably will edge Arlington. Melrose expects no trouble from Belmont, and Newton to edge Stoneham.

City Basket Rivals Meet at Arena

West End House and Boston Y. M. H. A., basketball rivals of many years, will play their annual series this season at the Boston Arena.

Representatives of both clubs have been in touch with the Arena management and definite dates are expected to be announced soon.

Both of these clubs sport large followings and a game at the St. Botolph street court should attract over 3000 fans.

In recent years these teams have played to overflowing crowds at their respective games.

West End House has won nine straight games while the Y. M. H. A. is a strong contender for sectional honors.

Tomorrow the "Y" entertains the Philadelphia Colored Giants in the feature of a twin bill. In the other game, the Irwin Club is down to meet the Y. M. H. A. Jewels in a Greater Boston League fray.

With Nat Hickey scoring 11 points, the Boston Trojans registered their fifth straight home victory in defeating the Philadelphia Hebrews, 32 to 26, at the Arena.

Davey Banks, colorful guard for the local quintet, turned his ankle in the middle of the third stanza and was replaced by Coach Fiddie Morley.

The first period was close with the Trojans leading, 7-6. At the start of the second, the Montezmen went on a scoring rampage which the Hebrews were unable to stop.

EAGLES WIN LETS BRUINS KEEP PLACE

BOUCHER SIX BEATS WINGS AS B'S GO DOWN

By Bill Grimes

Good old "Buck" Boucher came to the Bruins' rescue last night.

While the Patricians were taking their second setback of the week from the Maroons in Montreal, "Buck" turned his St. Louis Eagles loose against Smilin' Jack Adams' Red Wings in the Mound City.

The Eagles not only stopped the Red Wings from moving into a second place tie with the Bruins, but moved up to within a game and a half of third place in their division.

Nels Stewart was sent to the penalty box for carrying a hub stick, just before the close of the first period. No sooner was he off the ice than the Maroons banged in on Tiny Thomlinson and Hooley Smith scored the only goal of the game.

During the second period, Peggy O'Neil and Herbie Cain drew major penalties for taking punches at each other. In the mixup, Mike Rodden, the referee, hit the ice.

The Americans gave the Maple Leafs a scare in New York after trailing three goals at the start of the second period. During the first stanza, Buzz Boll scored twice for the Leafs, and Joe Primeau came up with one marker.

The Amerks pulled up to within one goal in the second period on tallies by Rabbit McVeigh and Lorne Carr. Late in the third chapter Eddie Berks scored the tying goal, but in the overtime, the American defense cracked and allowed Pep Kelly to cage the winning goal.

ILLEGAL CHECKS ANGER PEGGY O'NEIL

By Bill Grimes

Apparently Peggy O'Neil was all fed up on the tossing around he received from the Maroons here at the Garden on Tuesday and in the Forum, for last night he smacked Herbie Cain and along with his opponent drew a major penalty.

Peggy was the victim of stiff and illegal checks on Christmas night, and he took his punishment like a little major . . . But, there is a limit and as the officials did not call 'em, Peggy took the matter in his own hands . . . "Pep" Kelly, the ex-St. Michaels College junior star, gave the Maple Leafs a 4 to 3 overtime victory over the Americans last night, after the wearers of the star spangled banner unies had made up a three goal deficit . . . PROS PERILED

Now that the colleges are letting down the bars and "going out to get 'em," the pros should take steps to prevent their stars from being weaned back into the collegiate ranks . . . Canadiens and the Lewiston Cyclones . . . Through the acquisition of Julien Savard and the return of Gene Houle, North Cambridge will "ice" its strongest team of the season during the trip . . . "Bi" Simendinger, former Holy Cross football and baseball star, who has been coaching at Gonzaga high in Washington and the Northeastern Catholic high school in Philly, is in line for the Mt. St. Mary's berth . . . Johnny Dundee, who was taken to the cleaners by the stock market, is trying to stage a comeback . . .

Bob Jeremiah, former Somerville high and Hebron Academy boy, is going over big with the Baltimore Orioles . . . Bob scored both of the Orioles' goals against the Crescents in Madison Square Garden and is now playing on Billy Boyd's first line.

MAGIC!

John Ross Roach, the ex-Detroit and Ranger goalie, claims that Nels Stewart's success as a goal getter is due to the fact that the Bruin captain pops up out of a trapdoor in front of the nets.

The Drake University basketball squad is on a nine-mile trip via automobile and will exhibit at Cleveland, playing Western Reserve; tackle Duquesne at Pittsburgh; Temple and West Chester Teachers in the Philly district; Lehigh, Long Island U. at Brooklyn, and George Washington in the Capitol City before returning to Des Moines.

Jack Onslow, the Red Sox and Spencer Shoe Co. coach, was the recipient of a book on "How to Play the Infield" for Christmas.

For the life of me, I cannot understand why Dartmouth is making overtures to Penn State for the resumption of football relations . . . If the Big Green is seeking a college for an early season game, it would be to the advantage of the Hanover institution to tie up with Boston College, which has a following of sufficient numbers to pack Memorial Field.

Antique Marling Doffs Lid

Threatened with expulsion from home and the possibility of being socially ostracized, Win Marling, Boston University's popular track coach, was forced to discard the chapeau he has been wearing for twelve years.

Marling has had the same relic for the past dozen years and would wear no other lid, but the Mrs. put her foot down and told him to get a new hat or stay in town.

The upshot of it came at the B. U. athletic offices when Marling asked Walt Holmer, backfield coach, how to fix the new hat in a collegiate way.

Marling also said confidentially that the reason he obeyed his wife was that the hat really was a bit worn.

Babe's Just Spoofing HE'LL PLAY NEXT YEAR IN ANY ROLE, SAYS MACK

By International News Service

Honolulu, T. H., Dec. 28—Babe Ruth will return to the baseball diamond next year despite his threats to quit unless offered the managership of a major league team.

Connie Mack, owner of the Philadelphia Athletics, made this flat statement today following his arrival here with eight big league stars from Japan.

"Even though the Babe has issued statements to the contrary he will return to the game in any capacity," Mack said. "He loves the crack of a bat and he knows it."

Whether Ruth definitely told Mack he would play next season with the New York Yankees, the wily veteran of baseball history would not say. Ruth was not aboard. He is now en route to Europe.

Ruth has been insistent that he would retire from the game, unless a managerial berth was offered him. He had been reported as slated for a pilot's job in various cities in the American and National Leagues, but gradually these have been closed to him, although the Boston Braves were said to have tried to obtain him. It was also reported Connie Mack would try to get the Babe and use him as an assistant manager, much in the same role that Eddie Collins played before he came to the Red Sox.

Sarazen Lucky

Honolulu, T. H., Dec. 28 (INS)—Gene Sarazen, one of America's greatest golfers, today predicted he would win both the United States and British open titles in 1935.

"Every time I play in Hawaii," Sarazen said, "it's a good luck charm. When I was here in 1931 I was able to score a grand slam in the big tournament."

Dizzy Cops Most Of Hurling Honors

FIRST IN 17 YEARS TO WIN 30 GAMES

By JOE CASHMAN

The past National League season produced four mound heroes. They are Jerome "Dizzy" Dean, Carl Hubbell, Curt Davis and Waite Hoyt.

The inimitable Dean person had the highest winning percentage, was the first pitcher in the league to win 20 games since Grover Cleveland Alexander turned the trick back in 1917, and was the strikeout king for the third successive season with 195.

King Carl Hubbell slipped, but very slightly. The Giants' southpaw ace had the best earned run average, 2.20 per game, and hurled the most complete games, 25. He also turned in 21 victories.

Curt Davis proved the classiest first-year flinger in several seasons. The Coast draftee made his debut in fast company by winning 19 games with the seventh-place Phillies, finishing third in the earned-run rating with a mark of 2.96 and engaging in the most games, 51.

These three were the only hurlers pitching more than 10 complete games who allowed less than three earned runs per contest.

Veteran Waite Hoyt, supposed to be all washed up as a winning pitcher when he was turned loose by the Yankees three or four years ago, staged a comeback with the Pirates that made him the leader of the flingers.

Fred Frankhouse earned the title of Braves ace with a record of 17 victories and nine defeats. This gave him seventh place in the earned-run column and fifth position in the won and lost list.

The other Tribal standouts were Ed Brandt and Huck Betts. Betts Ed captured 16 decisions while dropping 14. "Huckleberry" won as many games as Frankhouse and lost only one more.

Ray Benge Smith was another Warrior to distinguish himself. The Atlanta Thrush finished 25 games which made him the top man.

Paul "Daffy" Dean was over shadowed by Brother "Diz" but the youngster gained a niche for himself by turning in the only no hit game of the season. He picked the Dodgers as victims.

Tootin' Right

Dizzy Dean of the Cardinals doesn't have to toot his own horn today, for the official National League pitchers' averages reveal that Diz led all the rest in games won and lost in 1934.

OLD PIN CHAMP NOW SITTING KING

By Ed Cogswell

In my travels from alley to alley I ran across Charley Gangi, and he was looking fat, happy and prosperous. Gangi knows the candlepin game from setting the pins as an alley manager and now a proprietor.

In the heyday of his youth Gangi was rated among the top-notchers in both league and match bowling. For a time he was the world candlepin champion, having gained that honor when he defeated George McConville in a 20-string match.

But a lot of water has swished under the bridge since then and, in the meantime, Gangi has grown portly, to say the least. This fact is demonstrated by his preference in enjoying his bowling sitting down.

"I'm still a champion," declares Gangi, "but it's the sitting down champion. I'll take any of them on at that style of bowling."

The numerous friends of Gangi will be glad to know that he is well fixed in owning an up-to-date bowling and billiard emporium in Hanover street, near to the location of the old police station.

Since the Warren Brown claim that Wildey five was the fastest and premier team ever seen on an alley, I find there has been a lot of fanning on the subject. Many differ from Brown in pointing out that the Chauncys have that distinction.

To get the right angle on the subject I asked Archie Walsh, at the 20th Century, what his version was in the rating of the two teams.

Walsh it will be remembered was on both the Wildey and Chauncy fives, so I figured that he was the right person to give inside information.

"Not a shade of a straw difference between them," was his quick reply. "Yes, I bowled with both of them, so I should know what I'm talking about.

School Grid Fatalities Increase

New York, Dec. 28 (INS)—High school football games take a toll of three times as many fatalities as 35 college contests, Floyd R. Eastwood of the New York University faculty reported to the American Football Coaches Association today.

Eastwood said that from 1931 to 1934 inclusive, 115 accidental deaths were attributed directly to football, not including deaths caused by infection of wounds suffered on the gridiron. Fifty fatalities, or 44 per cent, were high school players; 33, or 28 per cent, were undertakers; 16, or 14 per cent, were collegians; and 16, or 14 per cent, were members of athletic clubs.

Deaths attributable to football decreased this year to 23 as against 27 in 1933, Eastwood reported, although high school fatalities in 1934 showed a 20 per cent increase over 1933. Of all deaths recorded, 52 per cent were in the 16 to 19-year-old age group.

Head and spine injuries accounted for 67.9 per cent of all fatalities. Cerebral hemorrhage was the cause most frequently attributed, tackling accounted for 11.9 per cent of all deaths.

WILSON Tropical CHOICE IN FOURTH RACE

BUSHMAN LOOKS BEST IN SECOND EVENT

By Dave Wilson

CASH GIRL—BEST BET

Cash Girl, the swift running daughter of Sickle and Sales Lady, needs only to run back to her victory of a fews days ago in order to drub a strong field of juveniles in the six furlongs of the third race here tomorrow afternoon.

SCOTCH QUEEN, PRETTY SOFT, BROKEN UP

FIRST RACE—Purse $500, claiming, two-year-olds, six furlongs.

1 Scotch Queen	112	E. Watson	2-1
5 Pretty Soft	111	Gilbert	3-1
3 Broken Up	114	Wright	5-1
11 Gudlin	108	Parris	8-1
12 Transfer	114	Arcaro	10-1
2 John Gilpin	116	Porter	15-1
7 Seasmoke	111	Hartz	15-1
9 Greentone	108	Lynch	20-1
4 Sun Chance	111	Litzenberger	20-1
6 Balmacan	109	G. Watson	20-1
10 La Cherie	115	J. Renick	20-1
13 Patient Sam	116	J. Renick	20-1

SCOTCH QUEEN will have to break alertly in order to escape early trouble in this affair. The daughter of Scotch Broom was never better, as may be attested by her record over this strip. PRETTY SOFT is on the improve and figures to be close at the finish. BROKEN UP, a recent graduate, is next best.

BUSHMAN, CONACHER, FLAT ROCK

SECOND RACE—$500, claiming, three-year-olds and up, one mile and one-sixteenth.

1 Bushman	113	E. Watson	2-1
2 Conacher	112	Arcaro	3-1
3 Flat Rock	113	S. Renick	3-1
10 Lambert Man	110	Gilbert	8-1
5 Limbus	112	Lambert	8-1
6 Winnie	107	Litzenberger	10-1
8 Calgary Kay	112	Merritt	15-1
9 High Score	113	Hartz	15-1
7 Tinara	105	Lynch	15-1
4 Tintypist	110	Parris	15-1

BUSHMAN stands out in the light of his last race. CONACHER set a blistering pace in front of Al Neiman last out. FLAT ROCK may be a bit underrated.

M. J. BRENNAN, COONEY, HASTINIP

THIRD RACE—Purse $500, claiming, two-year-olds, six furlongs.

7 M. J. Brennan	116	E. Watson	2-1
2 Cooney	114	Wright	3-1
6 Hastinip	114	Bryson	4-1
5 Handley Lad	116	Jones	6-1
9 Hornet	116	Horn	6-1
10 Rocky Man	109	Rainey	10-1
4 Beaver Dam	111	Lynch	20-1
3 Shelly	114	Arcaro	20-1
8 Dandy	109	Lauman	20-1
1 Contrast	111	Litzenberger	20-1
11 King Arthur	120	S. Renick	20-1

M. J. BRENNAN was a victim of poor racing luck in his debut. The Republic gelding was off a bit slower than usual and forced to lose a world of ground. COONEY turned in an excellent race in placing Air Line, but hardly measures up with the top one. HASTINIP is due for a good race.

CASH GIRL, ROMAN SOLDIER, CANTERBOY

FOURTH RACE—Purse $600, allowances, two-year-olds, six furlongs.

1 Cash Girl	109	Hartz	2-1
7 Roman Soldier	112	Wright	4-1
2 Canterboy	112	Wright	4-1
3 Lucky Pilot	112	O'Malley	8-1
5 Pontus	112	O'Malley	10-1
6 Little Miss Lucky	109	Lynch	10-1
9 Manuel	110	Manfredi	20-1
11 Howard	107	Manfredi	20-1
8 Fight or Quit	112	J. Renick	20-1

EARL PORTER, SABULA, SLAPDASH

FIFTH RACE—Purse $1000, Sarsota Handicap, all ages, one mile.

Earl Porter	90	G. Watson	2-1
Sabula	113	Litzenberger	2-1
Slapdash	117	Bailey	4-1
Chantilly	109	Harder	4-1
Bold Venture	98	Ludwig	10-1

EARL PORTER, third to Cash Girl last time, stamped himself a high class race horse in that affair. The handsome son of Genie was off poorly and raced as if much the best. Under the weight arrangements he should not experience much difficulty in earning bracketed. SABULA is strictly the one to fear. SLAPDASH for the remainder of the spoils.

LOFTY LADY, VESTED POWER, WISE ADVOCATE

SIXTH RACE—Purse $500, claiming, three-year-olds and up, one mile.

1 Lofty Lady	108	Raines	3-1
2 Vested Power	114	Arcaro	3-1
3 Wise Advocate	114	Wright	3-1
4 Four Jacks	111	Jones	5-1
5 Chance Flight	108	Malley	5-1
6 Nimble	111	Rainey	10-1
7 Shasta Star	111	Powell	15-1

LOFTY LADY served notice that she is ready for brackets in her lone start over this strip. She should never leave the issue in doubt, if the stable so elects. VESTED POWER is from a stable that is always levelling. WISE ADVOCATE may upset the above calculations.

FOXLAND HALL, AL NEIMAN, FLYING DERE

SEVENTH RACE—Purse $500, claiming, three-year-olds and up, one and one-eighth miles.

2 Foxland Hall	x116	Bryson	2-1
3 Al Neiman	x116	Parvin	4-1
4 Flying Dere	x107	G. Watson	6-1
7 Ahmed	105	Malley	6-1
1 Arab	111	Wright	8-1
8 Yellow Metal	x107	Lynch	8-1
6 Fair Mole	111	C. W. Smith	8-1
		Arcaro	10-1

FOXLAND HALL appears to have a decided edge over his opponents. AL NEIMAN was all out in drub cheaper ones last time. FLYING DERE was a surprise winner last time.

It's easy to imagine what these three gents, who happen to be three of the outstanding football critics of the country, are talking about. Football, of course, and they were caught in a huddle at the annual coaches meeting now in session in New York City. Bierman is coach of Minnesota, Little pilots Columbia while Dooley, great quarterback at Dartmouth years back, is now an outstanding grid writer.

STANFORD HAS BEST ELEVEN IN 13 YEARS

THAT IS WORD OF COACH, TINY THORNHILL

By Maxwell Stiles
Universal Service

Pasadena, Cal., Dec. 28—Steaming with energy and unmistakably fired with an intense fervor to get back into proper Rose Bowl step after stumbling in Pasadena's sacred temple of football last New Year's Day, the entire Stanford University worked out for the Alabama game before a big crowd of curious spectators at Brookside Park.

The workout followed the arrival of the second half of the Stanford team, accompanied by Coach "Tiny" Thornhill, who said:

"This is the best team Stanford has had since I have been connected with the university. That goes back 13 seasons.

"It has looked that way at times, at least, while on other occasions it hasn't been so hot.

"I can only hope that it will be up to its best next Tuesday."

Tiny's remarks were delivered before a large gathering of "kick-off" luncheonists.

Speaking before the same group, Coach Frank Thomas of Alabama refused to be put on the spot when asked if his team is the best that ever came out of the South, as so many of the Dixie experts have claimed for it.

He declared:

"Down South we consider our three best teams the Georgia Tech team that played California, the Tulane team that met Southern California, and the Alabama team that won from Washington State.

"I can only say this about my own team, that I hope it upholds the traditions set by these other great teams."

Southern, Eastern and other visiting newspaper men were interested spectators at the Stanford workout.

Most of them were highly impressed with the Stanford boys, yet it was not hard to see they saw nothing there to fear. If anything, what they saw strengthened their belief in Alabama.

High Flier

Don McKee is counted on for big things at Boston College when the track season opens. He may run in both the one mile and two mile relays.

Hanson Signs

New York, Dec. 28 (INS)—Vic Hanson announced today that he had signed a new five-year contract to coach football at Syracuse University, his alma mater. Hanson has been head coach at Syracuse since 1929.

HUSSAR TRIO, RANCHERS IN ARMORY TILT

TRIPLE BILL ON IN POLO LOOP TOMORROW

The White Mountain Polo Ranch trio of the Boston Indoor Polo League makes another comeback stride tomorrow night at Commonwealth Armory, against the 110th Cavalry Hussars. The Ranchers were defeated by one Cavalry trio last weekend, due to the spectacular work of Tim Clark.

Two other matches complete the triple-header. The 51st Artillery Brigade plays Medford Ramblers in Class B, and the 110th Cavalry Cossacks meet Winchester Aces in Class C.

TIGERS, IF OUR LUCK HOLDS OUT"

Detroit, Dec. 28 (INS)—Predicting another pennant for his Tigers next year—"If our luck holds out"—Frank J. Navin, owner of the Detroit American League flag winners, said today that the New York Yankees are the team the Tigers must beat.

"They have the power and the pitching," Navin said of the team that gave his club a merry battle in the 1934 campaign. "I like them pretty well."

"Our chances are good. This is going to be a six-club race, it is going to be difficult for any team to win."

Cleveland, New York, Boston, Detroit, Philadelphia and Washington, Navin pointed out, have bright chances to cop the pennant in 1935. "Of course, we'll have to be lucky," he said of Detroit prospects.

Marines on Top

The Marines team nosed out the Boston Rifle & Revolver Club, 909-901, at the Navy Yard Range. Phinney was high gun for the Marines with 185.

M'GRATH Beats DEMPSEY

SIGNS IRISH MAT GIANT

GUARANTEES EMERALD ISLE LAD $100,000

Jack McGrath of Worcester today beat Jack Dempsey to the punch when he signed Dan O'Mahoney, Irish heavyweight wrestling champion, to a five-year contract.

McGrath has guaranteed the youthful Irish sensation $100,000 as part of his agreement. O'Mahoney will also receive a percentage privilege.

Jack Dempsey had offered O'Mahoney $50,000 to sign a five-year contract to box under his direction.

"I gave the Dempsey offer serious consideration," said O'Mahoney, "but finally decided to stick to wrestling. I believe I can beat any wrestler in the world. After I have accomplished this feat I may then decide to invade the boxing game and go shooting for a match with Max Baer. I have the greatest confidence in Jack McGrath, my new manager."

It was McGrath who brought O'Mahoney to America. The Worcester man, however, didn't have any contract with the Irish champion. The latter was anxious to size up at first hand the situation here before he committed himself in the matter of a contract.

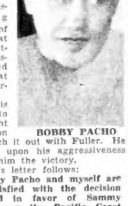
IDEAL MODEL

Dempsey held several conferences with O'Mahoney in Boston last week. He pointed out that Dan, six feet two inches tall and weighing 217 pounds, was ideal timber to be built up as a challenger for Max Baer.

Dempsey asserted an Irish boxing champion would shatter all box office record. He believes O'Mahoney's powerful physique, speed and youth gave him a fine chance to accomplish this result.

O'Mahoney will make his American debut as a wrestler when he clashes with Ernie Dusek, Nebraska Wildcat, in a finish bout, best two falls out of three, at the Boston Garden on next Friday night.

Pacho Asks Fuller for Return Go



BOBBY PACHO

Bobby Pacho and "Babe" McCoy, his manager, were not satisfied with the decision that declared Sammy Fuller a winner over the Pacific Coast champion at the end of 10 blistering rounds of warfare at the Christmas Basket Fund show in the Garden.

Pacho is ready to come right to the front and punch it out with Fuller. He will rely upon his aggressiveness to gain him the victory.

McCoy's letter follows:

"Bobby Pacho and myself are not satisfied with the decision rendered in favor of Sammy Fuller over the Pacific Coast champion. Pacho feels he won, and I agree with him. So will most of the fans who witnessed the stirring bout in the Garden.

"Pacho didn't take a backward step during the bout. I don't intend to be a squawker. Neither does Pacho. Let Fuller sign for a return meeting with Pacho, and my champion will prove he is the better man.

PAYS $8.60

Wichita City, three-year-old colt from S. Shackford's stable, was an easy victor in the mile and 70 yards Debutantes Handicap at Alamo Downs, Tex., winning by two lengths from Oros and Sigman's Homework. C. E. Davison's Technocrat, a three-year-old as the name might indicate, was third. The winner ran the distance in 1:53 3-5 and paid $8.60 straight.

M. I. T. HAS HIGH CLASS RING SQUAD

LUCIEN, MARTIN AMONG BEST PROSPECTS

In the Hangar gym, Coach Rawson is busy with his freshman boxers, who are in training for their opening fights against the Harvard freshmen on January 10.

Also rapidly coming to the fore is Edward Martin, an Everett boy. Salem provides the training quarters for the varsity punchers. Philip ("Champ") Uorion, 113-pounder; Co-Captain Nick Lefthes and James Casala all live in the Witch City.

Clark Signs

BUT NOT WITH DEAR OLD HARVARD

Detroit, Dec. 28—George "Potsy" Clark, reported as a probable Harvard football coach for 1935, was anchored in his Detroit Lions pro team herth today.

Clark signed a contract for next season as head of the professional eleven, and immediately started making plans for the '35 National League campaign.

PROS WILL SWEEP COLLEGE 'DIRT'

Fast Stealing Play From Amateurs

By Bill Corum

New York, Dec. 28—The president of Washington and Jefferson College recently explained the high cost of producing winning college football teams.

At a luncheon in our town, yesterday, Dr. Howard Savage of the Carnegie foundation, pointed out how approximately $100,000 had been expended in behalf of "pure" college athletics without appreciable result.

Too bad.

This bureau mourns with the president of W. and J. and the head of the Carnegie Foundation, but as the New Year approaches bids them be of good cheer.

It is not a problem that is going to perturb the colleges of this country much longer, any more than the problem of proselyted baseball players perturbs them.

Professional football is rapidly exploding the myth of their troubles, and the more loudly they declaim against tainted college athletics, the more rapidly will pro football remove the cause of their complaint.

Please believe me when I say that I do not mean to be blowing whistles. It is one of the things I never want to do.

The proof of that is that I might ask, almost offhand, 2000 embarrassing questions about college football, whereas only one or two comparatively innocent ones are suggested.

How, for instance, did Princeton turn overnight from a gridiron zephyr into a tornado which, blow me down, blew 'em all down save Yale?

Now my indignation, never very deep, since my boiling point is high, is not against the colleges, or the football players, who take their wares where they are most appreciated, or against the gentlemen who, with the best of intentions, conduct surveys.

As long as eight years ago this bureau was squawking about the subterfuges of amateur tennis. The tennis people laughed. That was okay.

But we predicted that one day professional tennis would come along and cause them to stop yet. But I suspect that day isn't yet. But I suspect that tennis moguls are only smiling now.

Which, mark me, is what is going to happen to the college football gentlemen. The pros are coming and they are going.

The reason is that the pros are 100 per cent honestly pros. And honestly, to coin a bright, new phrase, pays.

—O— The Communist Program of Class Warfare and World Revolution —O—

"THE dictatorship of the proletariat is nothing else than power based upon force and limited by nothing—by no kind of law and by absolutely no rule."
—LENIN, Complete Works, Vol. xviii, Page 361.

"THE American Communist Party must be improved and Bolshevized. For that end we must work in order to forge real revolutionary cadres and a real revolutionary leadership of the proletariat, capable of leading the many millions of the American working class toward the revolutionary class struggles."
STALIN, in address May 6, 1929.

"THE conquest of power by the proletariat is the VIOLENT ABOLITION of the power of the bourgeoisie, the DESTRUCTION of the MACHINERY of the capitalist state.

"We proclaim openly that our design can only be realized by the VIOLENT OVERTHROW of the ENTIRE TRADITIONAL social order."

[The above policies were formally adopted and promulgated as the Communist program by the Sixth Congress of the Kommintern of the Communists' Internationale, which was held in 1925 in Moscow.]

NEW ENGLAND'S GREATEST EVENING NEWSPAPER

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 28, 1934

LARGEST EVENING CIRCULATION BY MORE THAN 80,000

A RAW DEAL For Massachusetts

GOVERNOR JOSEPH B. ELY has handed the voters of Massachusetts one of the rawest deals they ever received.

The closing weeks of his administration have been devoted to juggling important appointments in a series of cheap political moves for which there appears to be no other explanation than a personal desire to embarrass his successor.

Yet the real affront is to the people, and more particularly to the members of the governor's own party.

For the people elected James M. Curley and in overwhelming fashion expressed their demand for a Curley administration at the State House. When Governor Ely tries to prevent that, he affronts every voter.

Governor Ely made no effort to cloak his resentment when Mr. Curley was victorious in the primaries and when he was elected.

Instead, in moves that became more and more obvious in their successive stages, he proceeded to fill high state offices with men who are hostile to Mr. Curley and who cannot do otherwise than embarrass Mr. Curley's efforts to provide a sorely-needed administration of competence.

THE governor has done his best to handicap his successor, block the administration the people demanded and prevent the people from getting what they want.

When his appointments were merely to fill expired terms there was little that could be said against them except that their very nature and great number indicated a distasteful motive.

But when, as yesterday, the governor forced resignations from unexpired terms in high offices in order to prevent Mr. Curley from choosing aides who would have been helpful, he exceeded even the far-flung, flexible bounds of political propriety.

Even the qualifications of the governor's appointments are beside the issue.

The point is that the people demanded Mr. Curley and a Curley administration, and that Governor Ely has set himself and his personal desires above the will of the people.

HE has accomplished a shabby political trick, savoring of personal animosity, with the aid of an executive council which traded its public duty for the achievement of its own selfish aims. The council is also to be condemned.

Governor Ely said, at the conclusion of yesterday's proceedings:

"Well, we have cleaned up everything in sight. To me it looks like a pretty good day's work."

If he meant it the way it sounds, the people will agree.

WE have faith in James M. Curley, and in his ability to overcome handicaps raised by whatever trickery.

His task of setting the state government to rights, of relieving unemployment and distress and of warring on crime has been made infinitely more difficult by the acts of the man he will succeed.

Successfully meeting it now will be the finer achievement.

We believe Mr. Curley will find the ways and means of providing the people of Massachusetts with what THEY want, regardless of the obvious fact that Joseph B. Ely doesn't want it.

Preparedness for Peace
The Pope Gives Wise Counsel

Pope Pius XI, in his moving plea for international peace, not only voices the sentiments of all men of good will but points out that the best assurance of maintaining it may be PREPAREDNESS.

"It is often said," the Pope's message declares, "that he who wants peace must prepare for war. We accept this saying if preparedness means a guaranty of peace."

As far as America is concerned, history has always shown that our wars either have been DUE to unpreparedness, or have been cruelly prolonged BECAUSE of unpreparedness.

The awful losses in blood and treasure which they have entailed could have been minimized or utterly averted by a policy of national readiness for the worst when war threatened.

Those who are unwilling to pay that price by adequate preparations for defense condemn their country to constant danger, and to sacrifices a thousand-fold greater than they need have been if the facts had been faced in time.

In Spite of Politics
Squandering Must End

Not much longer will useless counties and spendthrift municipalities be permitted to continue their squandering ways.

Such was the message delivered in Pittsburgh to the National Municipal League by its new head, Dr. Harold W. Dodds, President of Princeton University.

"Old-fashioned citizens must be prepared to see services, hallowed as local functions, assumed by the State.

"The end of the depression will find our cities deep in debt to the State, with the Federal Government also holding claims against them.

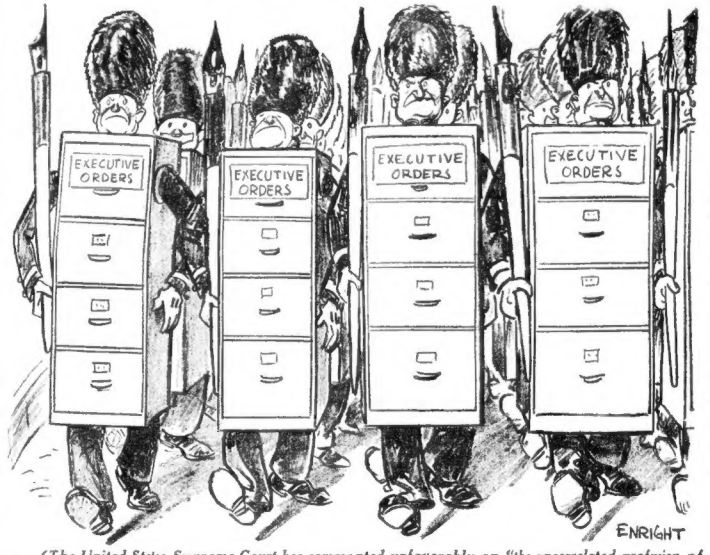
"Cities will be increasingly dependent upon State revenue —and he who pays the piper in the long run calls the tune."

Dr. Dodds described an acute situation very clearly.

If the localities do not act, the State may be expected to do so.

If the State fails to do so, the Federal Government will be obliged to step in.

FILES ON PARADE



(The United States Supreme Court has commented unfavorably on "the uncorrelated profusion of emergency law-making by executive fiat," and called attention to the fact that there is no means of keeping track of them.)—NEWS ITEM.

WHERE are the President's orders?
Where can a fellow trail
The code today that he must obey
Or land in a Federal jail?
Where are the latest edicts
Turned out by the cubic mile
By the ABC's and the XYZ's:
Where are they found on file?

SOME in the State Department,
Some in the Treasury,
Some in the courts or the weather reports,
Or the trucks of the D. S. C,
Some in the secret archives
Where dust of the ages blows.
And some you'll find in the Brain Trust's mind,

HOW can we find the orders
That tell us the way to do?
The various laws "with teeth and claws"
And fines and sentences, too?
We want to be strictly legal,
But we're in a haze so far
As to what is what in these laws we've got

SOME in the War Department
And some in the NRA
And some are kept in the Labor Dept.
And some in the Coast Sur-VEY.
And the Dead Letter Office has some,
And ever the tangle grows,
For nobody really knows!

Listen, World!

THE KING'S HIGHWAY

Still the week of Christmas. Setting a littered kitchen—or office—in rights. With the merry Christmas spirit fallen flatter'n a flounder. And Sally, of course, of the National broadcasting for us all.

"Don't you," she sighs, "ever get fed up on people? I know we're supposed to love everybody —especially now. But I guess the fellow who wrote those mottos never had to stand behind a counter in a Christmas rush. Those dumb crowds — honest, Elsie, what's the use of them? Haven't you ever wondered?"

Elsie Robinson

Sure I have! Who hasn't? Just as they've doubtless wondered what was the use of me! But whenever I do wonder something clicks and I remember back to a day when I stumbled on the answer.

I'd been tramping since morning over rocky Vermont fields. Poor, shallow soil, with scant grass and stunted trees, crumbled stone fences, weather-beaten wreckage that had once been homes. What a depressing record it was of poverty, hardship, hopeless drudgery!

How terrible existence must have been in a place like that—lacking all beauty and excitement. Why did anyone endure it? Life, I said to myself, stumbling over the rocks, was mostly like that. A meaningless monotony. As senseless as this tiresome walk I'd chosen for myself. Why did we go on with it?

Just then the trail, which had been vaguely mounting, swung out upon a height and the country lay outspread below. An inspiring scene—the same monotonous miles, checkered fields, huddled shacks. But one thing I had not noticed before.

From east to west between walled fields there ran the faint blur of a narrow lane. It was an old passage—far from the main highway.

It was, he said, "The King's Highway." No one in living memory had ever used it, but when these parts were still English colonies lanes like this were kept open for the King's agent. Night or day he might come racing by, with a thunder of hoofs and the clamor of horns, fleeing—ugly and drab some of them—jagged and vicious rocks —scarred by cruel storms. And many a time we tire of them, wonder if they're worth the time we spend upon them. But never yet was there a heart that did not hold its King's Highway.

No matter how drab the life, how dark the spirit, at some time Beauty rides that way, or Courage flares like flame, or Tenderness and Honor go slipping by with bright flags unfurled.

He was a plain old man in faded overalls, that farmer—but his eyes glowed as he spoke with pride of that departed glory. Turning home I, too, felt that glow. The rocky trail, the monotonous fields, where no longer the same. The meanest acre seemed edged with majesty for royalty rode that way!

And ever since, dealing with that other clay which we call man, I have remembered that day. For human hearts, too, are fields—ugly and drab some of them—jagged and vicious rocks —scarred by cruel storms. And many a time we tire of them, wonder if they're worth the time we spend upon them. But never yet was there a heart that did not hold its King's Highway.

No matter how drab the life, how dark the spirit, at some time Beauty rides that way, or Courage flares like flame, or Tenderness and Honor go slipping by with bright flags unfurled.

Stars and Stripes

The Home Loan Act would be even better if we could go to Uncle Sam and borrow a house.

Sally Rand could claim to be the twelve best "undressed" women in the world.

The industrialist who predicts a return of prosperity next July is hereby informed that, no matter how hot it is, we're not going to turn the electric fan on prosperity.

New York state alone has paid more than $45,000,000 in liquor taxes this year. Doesn't that prove the tax collector is driving people to drink?

WORK AND REST

Sometimes I think I'd rather be Adrift upon a sun-kissed sea
Watching the white clouds in the sky
Like canvased vessels floating by;
But wheresoever fancy seems
To lead me in the land of dreams,
However gay the splendors shown,
I am compelled to go alone.

Sometimes when wearied of my care
And gray mists settle everywhere,
I think it would be nice to slip
From duty's everlasting grip
And turn my back on tasks and things
Which each returning morning brings;
But always dreaming thus I find
My friends I'd have to leave behind.

And now I know 'tis not away
No man wants absolute relief
From weariness and pain and grief
And doubt and fear and daily care.
'Tis at the task and not at rest

Isn't It So?

No one can afford to trust himself in slippery places where others have failen.

Use or lose is a law which applies with regard to every faculty and gift man possesses.

You can seldom put in words what you feel in your heart.

Adversity may bring you closer to your friends than you have ever been.

Human Side of the News
Niagara Wearing Away
By Edwin C. Hill

THE GLOBE TROTTER OF HEARST METROTONE NEWS

Twenty thousand years from now, so the geologists tell us, there will be no more Niagara Falls to attract two million visitors a year, or to provide a stage for daredevils who find some queer attraction in dropping 160 feet in a barrel into rocks and a whirlpool.

At that, geologists may be wrong. It may be much less than twenty centuries before old Thundering Water, as the Iroquois named the Niagara river, eats away the great ledges and becomes something like the Colorado in the Grand Canyon.

Once within the past month and three times within the past three years have huge rocksides

LONG OLD STORY

Niagara is a long old story which begins thirty thousand years ago in the Ice Age and the formation of the Great Lakes. The vast basin of Lake Superior holds almost half of the fresh water of the world, and its overflow joins with that of Lakes Michigan and Huron to pour into Lake Erie.

Seeking an outlet to the sea, these waters break through a notch in Erie at the rate of 280,000 cubic feet a second to form the Niagara river which, in turn, tumbles on for thirty-one miles to empty into Lake Ontario.

In that dim, distant and icy past the great cliffs which form the falls of today were seven miles further downstream, towards Lake Ontario. Inch by inch, foot by foot, the river has eaten away the hard limestone and sandstone. But it still has sixteen miles to go, and a task of twenty thousand years before it has completed the great gorge between the two lakes.

Old Thundering Water has a difficult job cutting out its bed because of the lack of sand and gravel in its waters and because its course is over a plateau of limestone.

Bit by bit the limestone is undermined as the waters eat into the softer stone beneath. As this undercock goes, the limestone drops of its own weight.

A CLEAN BREAK

However, it is always a clean break and leaves the vertical wall from which the water drops a sheer 168 feet.

This inevitable process of Time, by the way, does not seem so slow when a drawing of the falls made one hundred years ago is compared with a photograph made in 1934. The three hundred feet difference is decidedly noticeable in the case of Horseshoe Falls.

Ten years ago, Herbert Hoover, then Secretary of Commerce, called attention to the wearing away of the center of Horseshoe Falls. He was rather alarmed and predicted that not in twenty thousand years, but within a short forty, the beauty of the falls would be destroyed, unless something was done about it.

All that was needed, in the opinion of Mr. Hoover, was a modest amount of engineering work to divert water over the wings of the falls. Otherwise, he said, the center would give away, and the water would go rushing down through the gorge, destroying the scenic grandeur.

Canada ratified a treaty to accomplish this work, but Senator Borah pigeonholed it because it involved concessions to power companies for undertaking the necessary work.

Auto Insurance Evils
Call for Real Remedy

His report is made to the incoming Legislature. Mr. Brown was ordered by the 1934 Legislature to investigate the situation.

If a better way than the commissioner suggests cannot be found to correct these evils, compulsory insurance itself might have to be scrapped.

It has promoted a great many "fake damage claim" rackets. Hundreds believe it has lowered drivers' consciousness of responsibility, and so caused a big increase in accidents.

3 Men on Beacon Hill
Would Curb the Council

Representatives Thomas Dorgan, David G. Nagle and John Aspell have filed a bill to limit the Governor's Council to the powers granted it by the State Constitution.

In these days, when there is a dangerous tendency to defeat, ignore or scrap Constitutions, both State and Federal, the proposal of this trio provides two surprises.

The first is that the Constitution which has served the Bay State so well and so long should find three outspoken defenders in the Legislature.

The second surprise is that the Governor's Council should have taken on itself other powers than those granted by the State Constitution.

With sudden reversals of opinion, the present Council has NOT acted in a way to stir public enthusiasm.

Abolishing the Council, as suggested by Governor-Elect Curley, would be the popular idea. Especially among taxpayers, who want to see useless salaries and expenses chopped out of the public budget.
